Turkey's Affairs

Constantinople, May 24.—The chamber of deputies and senate today with scarcely a dissenting vote passed votes of confidence in the ministry, after hearing Grand Vizier Hilmi Pasha's exposition of the government's policy. The Grand Vizier expressed the hope that the government could meet the financial deficit by economies without recourse to a loan. With reference to the Adana disorders, he emphasized the government's duty to eradicate the causes of such outbreaks, and thus prevent a recurrence.

Suspect of Train Robbery.

Dunvegan, Inverness Co. I am perfectly cured of Kidney complaint after using Gin Pills. Six hours after taking the first Pill I obtained relief, and now after three months I feel as well as ever.

I suffered ten months and the Physician attending me advised me to go to the Victoria Hospital, at Halifax, as he could do nothing more for me. I may add that I used a great deal of medicine, and strictly followed my physician's directions regarding diet, etc., but without avail, until providentially I learned of your most excellent remedy. I am recommending Gin Pills.

WORLD'S LARGEST OCEAN LINERS

Dimensions of Olympic and Titanic Now Being Built Are Published for First Time

T. L. Larke, the well known passenger agent at Seattle for the White Star and other Atlantic lines, furnishes the following information regarding the new White Star liners Olympic and Titanic, to be the largest of the world's steamships, the dimensions being now published for the first time. The accompanying picture shows one of the steamers as they will appear when completed:

"The construction of Neptune's latest and greatest rivals—the White Star Line's sea giants Olympic and Titanic is progressing rapidly at Belfast, and their completion early in 1911 will signalize a most important era in marine achievements. These monsters of the deep, whose vast proportions exceed the dreams of even a decade ago, will be 860 feet in length, 92 feet beam, 45,000 tons register and 60,000 tons displacement, stupendous figures which make it appear that the limit of size must soon be reached unless the harbors and channels here and abroad tion are prepared to admit that the new site is better than the former one. It was only by a misadventure that greater public notification was not given of the change of site.

What the New White Star Liners Olympic and Titanic will look like when completed.

are materially widened and deepened.

How wonderful are the works of Man. An ancient document refers to "a varie monstrous and great ship" constructed in Scotland in 1511. It was 210 feet in length; but Columbus's Pinta was only 90 feet long with 29 feet beam, yet on this vessel the intrepid mariner journeyed past the Pillars of Hercules across the unknown ocean and discovered a new world.

How monstrous in contrast are these new leviathans upon whose vast decks thousands upon thousands of "discoverers" will journey over to sea. "Als one writer as aptly put it, the Olympic and Titanic now hold the promissory blue ribbon of the sea, for, putting aside any ideas of excessive speed, the White Star Line has planned these ships to represent the acme of comfort, and this point alone seems already to have assured their undoubted popularity."

FIREWORKS DISPLAY DELIGHTS MANY

Fine Display at Beacon Hill Park Concludes Yesterday's Celebration

Save for the fact that a great deal of inconvenience was caused the spectators owing to a misunderstanding as to the exact site of the fireworks display, Monday's celebration was brought to a successful and petty conclusion yesterday evening at Beacon Hill.

Long before the time set for the commencement of the pyrotechnic display, 9 o'clock—ladies and gentlemen, crowded their way to Victoria's favorite breathing spot; but, arriving at their destination, for half an hour or more they wandered like a flock of sheep from point to point seeking in the dusk of the evening to locate the site of the display. For many years previously it has been the practice to "set off" the fireworks on the northern slope of Beacon Hill proper—the spectators assembling at a splendid vantage point around Burns' monument. This year, however, the committee consented to the display adjacent to the cricket grounds, facing the easterly slope of the hill. While this proved to be an excellent arrangement, the fact that no notice was given of the change proved distinctly embarrassing in the respect mentioned to the immense crowd which assembled.

However, with this one exception, all went merry as a marriage bell, and the display proved very satisfactory. It opened with the launching into the darkness of the night two paper balloons, which as full-pieces had rockets, which exploded when quite a distance up in the air. Then came a number of shell discharges in satisfying quantity judging from the choruses of "Ahs!" which greeted each ascending rocket. The set pieces were voted excellent. Some of the more noteworthy of these were the Ferris wheels, the pillars of empire, the famous spider shell, the Dreadnought Canada, portrait of King Edward, grand device and finale. The whole display went with a snap and vim characteristic of the Hitt Bros' displays, and withal was very creditable to that firm. It may be mentioned that in making the loud detonations which startled some of the spectators in the rocket displays, genuine lyddite was used. The flash from this explosive was at times quite blinding. The car service to the hill, while excellent in its way, was quite inadequate to handle the immense crowds seeking transportation.

It is only fair to the committee in charge of the fireworks to add that in choosing the new site for the display they had the interests of the spectators at heart, as an element of danger existed owing to the use of lyddite shells. And then, most of those who were present at last evening's exhibi-

MILITARY AND NAVAL DISPLAY

Excellent Entertainment Given by Soldiers and Sailors at Drill Hall

Tomorrow night at the Drill hall the military and naval display given by officers and men of the Fifth regiment, C. A., and from the warships at Esquimalt and Work Point garrison will be repeated, and prices of 25 cents with some few seats at 50 cents will rule.

It is expected there will be a good attendance, for the general public is expected to rally in aid of the regiment as well as to enjoy a good programme provided. Among the many numbers to be presented are tugs of war, lance drill by the sergeants, fancy drills, dismounting field guns and various contests. Leading team Roche of H. M. S. Albatross will again dance his hornpipe, a number which was greeted with loud applause at each previous entertainment, and the comical squad will put on many burlesques, the whole entertainment concluding with a striking tableau entitled "The Forces of the Empire."

The regimental band will be present and assist in the programme.

The popular prices and the desire to assist the regiment will doubtless result in a banner attendance at the performance tomorrow evening.

MANY WITNESSES WILL TESTIFY

Searching Inquiry to Be Made Into Facts of Death of Ian Cameron

That there will be a searching investigation into the circumstances of the death of young Ian Cameron, who was run down by a street car and killed on Saturday afternoon at the corner of Quadra and Fort streets is indicated by the fact that there will be some fifteen witnesses summoned to testify at the inquest to be held next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Besides the car crew, Mortman Boyle and Conductor Statterford, several eye witnesses to the accident will be subpoenaed, and evidence of the speed at which car No. 113 was travelling as it approached the crossing, on which the other car rebound from Oak Bay was standing when young Cameron got off as well as the height of the fender from the rails will be taken.

Yesterday morning Coroner Hart called together the jury, but after the body had been viewed the proceedings were adjourned until Friday. The following compose the jury: Henry A. Porter, foreman, Arthur Kent, Frederick O. Proctor, Ernest Steele, A. B. Oldershaw and David Murray.

CAPITALIST UPON OUTLOOK IN NORTH

Believes Rupert Property Good to Buy as Investment—Deprecates Speculation

One of the most aggressive and wide-awake members of the host of investors and capitalists who are just now invading British Columbia is Andrew Anderson, who is a guest at the Empress, after having just returned from Prince Rupert and a trip to many points along the northern coast. Interviewed by the Colonist yesterday afternoon, Mr. Anderson read extracts from a confidential report which he has prepared for the eyes of a number of capitalists in the east, and it is probable that as a result of his opinions respecting the opportunities for investment in this province, enterprises involving the expenditure of several millions of dollars will shortly be set afoot.

Mr. Anderson thinks that Prince Rupert is destined to ultimately become a great and flourishing city, but he utters a word of warning to the small investor to beware of buying for speculation at the present time. He points out that what he says in this connection is done in an entirely disinterested way, as he has nothing to gain or lose in the matter, but he thinks it would be a pity for the man of small means to be led to make a mistake in judgment which might prove embarrassing. On the other hand, he thinks the man who buys property at Prince Rupert with the intention of holding it will be making no mistake.

Text of Report

Referring to this point in his report on Prince Rupert, Mr. Anderson says: "Being personally interested in getting acquainted with the resources of British Columbia, especially along the coast, and having a great many friends in the east who are also interested in the same, I was approached by my several friends in April last to come out and investigate the different resources and see if there could be any kind of enterprises to employ money to make money."

"I left Ottawa on the 16th day of April and stopped over at Winnipeg which, at present, is my headquarters, and arrived in Victoria the 22nd of April."

"After I had got all the necessary information from the government, and being well supplied with maps and references of the territory, I contemplated travelling."

"I left here on the 26th of April and landed at Malcolm Island, which was the first point at which I stopped, on the 29th. There is no doubt in my mind but what Malcolm Island, which was acquired by a Finn seven years ago for colonization purposes, is one of the best islands there is on the coast; and the settlement, which now extends from one end of the island to the other, looks very prosperous. I am quite sure that it is only a matter of time when this island after they have had some assistance from the government in building roads, will be one of the best settlements on the coast."

"However, all the resources of the island are already exploited and I did not find anything there which would be worth while. After spending several days on the island, I went to Prince Rupert and landed there on the 4th of May, while the heaven was open and it was raining to beat the band. There is no doubt but several thousand eyes of the investors from different parts of the continent are concentrated to this particular point, and it being the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway; and there is very little doubt, in my mind, but this point will be a very important one when the railway connection with the east is accomplished, but it will not be at least inside of the next five years."

"The present existing town is a live one, because the railway construction is concentrated now to the next 100 miles west of Prince Rupert, but the contractors expect to have this section of the first 100 miles in running order inside of a year, and after the working crew is going to move 100 miles off from Prince Rupert, I do not expect there will be any special rush there."

"I am dictating this story just before the first sale of Prince Rupert lots, and I do not know what price they are going to sell for, but I expect that the prices will be too high, at least for speculation, because when the first excitement, and the results of the wild booming of it is over, I think that lots bought for speculating purposes in the coming sale, with few exceptions, will be all re-sold in two or three years from now, for half the price of what they will cost now."

"When I make this statement it might sound as though I were a knacker of Prince Rupert, but I will assure any one who has that supposition that I am not. I honestly believe that Prince Rupert will be a very good town after it is connected with the East by a railway, and her connections with the Far East are established, but it will take a number of years before this thing is done, and that is the reason that I am advocating that no man who wants to make money quick should invest a cent in Prince Rupert property for speculative purposes."

"The town is laid out very fine, and the men who were in the helm, making the subdivision, should be congratulated on their success of the outlay, because there is no doubt that when the town once is built, it is going to be very attractive and very convenient for all practical purposes. Of course, the ground there, especially in some cases, is very difficult, being rocky and mucky, deep and high; but a good many western cities in this continent have not been any better in their infancy. I am referring to Tacoma, Seattle and the oldest town on the coast, San Francisco. I think this will be enough to say to my opinion of Prince Rupert, and while I have been trying to discourage speculators, I might add that that every man who wants to go up to that northern country to make money in a legitimate business, he might buy a lot now for a price—it does not matter how high it will be—because he will be a pioneer and, without doubt, he will make good, if he has the financial resources and the brain to conduct his business."

Mr. Anderson has had a most interesting career. A native of Finland, where when only twenty-four years of age he was elected to the national parliament and served for several terms, being returned by acclamation after the first session, he came to America six years ago without being able to speak a word of English. he today speaks much better English than many of the native-born. Remarkable success has attended him in all his business investment, and to-day he has property interests in Massachusetts, Georgia and Manitoba. ## PASS STREET IMPROVEMENTS

City Council Will Decide on More Work on Leading Thoroughfares

Following out the policy which the city recently adopted, the improvement of the main trunk roads leading into the city, Esquimalt road will be improved from the Indian Reserve to the city boundary. At tomorrow night's meeting of the council, Alderman Mable will recommend that thoroughfare be graded, tar-macadamized and permanent sidewalks be laid on both sides with curb and gutters. The city will assume one-third of the cost the owners to pay the two-thirds. The council has already passed Oak Bay avenue from the junction to Foul Bay road for similar improvements, those being the two trunk roads on which improvement work will be undertaken first. It is the intention of the city to improve the other roads such as Douglas street, Craigflower road, the Gorge road, but it is doubtful if more than Oak Bay avenue and Esquimalt road will be done this year.

Other local improvement works which will be passed at tomorrow night's meeting will be: grading, draining and tar macadamizing Princess avenue, between Blanchard street and Quadra street and permanent sidewalks on both sides with boulevards; a boulevard on the south side of Belleville street from Menzies street to St. John street and boulevards on both sides of Government street from Michigan street to Toronto street; a permanent sidewalk on the east side of Menzies street from Superior street to Slincoe street, boulevards on both sides of the street from Belleville street to Slincoe street and the draining, grading and tar macadamizing of the roadway from Belleville street to Slincoe street, grading, draining and macadamizing Michigan street from Beacon Hill park to Menzies street and a permanent sidewalk on the north side of the said street from the park to Government street and boulevards on both sides from Government street to Menzies street.

LOCAL STUDENTS' EXCELLENT STAND

Undergraduates of McGill College of Victoria Successful in Examinations

The results of the undergraduates' examinations of the McGill University College of Victoria were received yesterday by E. J. Willis, Dean of the Faculty of Arts of the local institution. They are most satisfactory. In the first year eight students passed in every subject four obtained supplemental, and one failed. Miss Mary Hamilton and Marshall Gordon obtained first rank general standing. B. second class, and Edna Lehman, Kenneth Drury, Helen Luscombe, Winifred Fox, Barbara Mowat, and Mable Logan, first class. Miss Hamilton stands first in this province, and second of all the students of the first year, including those who attended lectures at McGill, Montreal. Her marks are as follows: English 75, Latin 85, mathematics 92, French 79, physics 90, an average of 84.15 per cent.

In the second year the general result is even more gratifying. All five students are admitted to the third year at McGill. Miss Rena Chandler obtained a first-class general standing with an average of 76.15 per cent; Miss Nita McKillop, second; and Marshall Beckwith, Miss Erna Papke, and Harold Eberts, a third. Eberts gets a supplemental in French. The results of both years in detail are as follows:

First Year Arts.
English—1st class, Mary Hamilton, Marshall Gordon, equal; 2nd class, Alice Corry, Lillian M. Ross; 3rd class, Winifred Fox, R. F. Loenholm, K. C. Drury, Edna Lehman, E. Helen Luscombe, and Barbara Mowat, equal.
Latin—1st class, Mary Hamilton, Marshall Gordon, Alice Corry; 2nd class, R. F. Loenholm, Edna Lehman, E. Helen Luscombe, Kenneth C. Drury, and Lillian M. Ross, equal; Barbara Mowat; 3rd class, Katie Coates, Mable Logan, Winifred Fox.
Mathematics (Algebra, Geometry, and Trigonometry)—1st class, Mary Hamilton, Marshall Gordon, 2nd class, Marshall Beckwith, Miss Erna Papke, and Harold Eberts, a third. Eberts gets a supplemental in French. The results of both years in detail are as follows:

THE HOLIDAY

Nature certainly did her best yesterday to give the people of Victoria a happy holiday and scored a complete success. There have been "Twenty-fourths" with more varied programmes, but none which, taken all in all, have passed off more successfully. The scene up the Arm was of unusual animation, perhaps more so than any since the naval station was closed. There never were as many boats at the scene of the regatta. An interesting feature of the day was the splendid manner in which Superintendent Gibson, of the Tramway company, and his courteous and careful corps of conductors and motormen, handled the enormous crowd, and equally so was the admirable, yet unobtrusive work done by Chief Langley and the city police. The people of Victoria are, of course, the best behaved holiday crowd in the world. They use their own rights so as not to interfere with the rights of others, in a manner that is beyond praise. There were many strangers in the city, who entered very heartily into the spirit of the day. Altogether the holiday was a success, and perhaps none the less so because there was not too much to do.

THE RESERVOIR.

The reservoir on Smith's Hill—and, by the way, the name might be changed to Reservoir Hill, as there is no historical significance in its present name—might easily be made one of the most valuable assets of the city from the scenic point of view. It may be doubted if from any point within any other city in the world there is such an outlook as from the top of the reservoir. Certainly there can be nothing finer. It is understood that the plans of the city contemplate the enclosure of the reservoir with a fence, and that the public will not be admitted. The stone coping surrounding the great basin itself shows that no one is expected to be upon the top of the enclosing embankment, for it is inconceivable that any one would leave such a body of water unprotected if people were to be allowed to approach it. We suggest to the City Council that an iron fence should be put around the basin at a distance of a few feet, that the whole surface of the top of the embankment should be asphalted, and that the outside slope should be protected in some way. The top of the embankment is of more than ample width for a driveway; but there might be objections, perhaps, to using it for that purpose, although we do not see what they are. There can be none to using it as a promenade, and it would, undoubtedly, be one of the most popular resorts that could possibly be provided. Citizens would do well to go and see what it is like, for they surely would be concerned that so matchless a view point should not be closed to the public.

REGARDING ROADS.

Roadmaking is receiving a great deal of attention in England just now, and a County Council's Association was recently held at which valuable papers were read and important discussions took place. Much stress was laid upon the folly of permitting roads to get into bad shape before repairs were made. The London Times' report says:

In his paper on systematic patching, Mr. Pickering deals with one of the most important of all the questions concerning road costs that are most urgent, least attended to, and least recognized as a governing factor in cost and comfort. Mr. Pickering recognizes the importance of patching from the day of completion of a new road surface and he recognizes the importance and life-giving value of patching done by men who have been taught to look upon it as the work of a pavilion, and not as one who merely has to throw a little or a lot of road-surface material here and there almost as though the work were of no importance. The lack of appreciation of the value of intelligent patching is bad enough on macadam roads, where it has become more than ever necessary on steam-roller made surfaces, but it is still worse on wood pavements, where a road is paved and then allowed to get into a state in which every defective block becomes an infective centre of destruction. A wood-paved road needs careful inspection from a month or two after its completion for the detection of every block bad for any reason, and these (with proper appliances which can be devised instead of by the brute force and pickaxe methods at present employed) should be at once removed and replaced.

In explanation of the increased cost of highway maintenance and the generally unsatisfactory condition of the roads it was pointed out that the great increase of population and the larger per capita distribution of goods prevalent now accounts very largely for these things even without taking into account the extra wear and tear resulting from rapid motor traffic. The injury done by the latter is not wholly due to speed, but to the heavy weight of motor vehicles which is very much greater than that of horse-drawn vehicles which move rapidly. It is very evident that a heavy car, traveling at 25 or 30 miles an hour, would do a great deal more injury to a road than a carriage drawn by a horse moving at as rapid a speed as a horse can go, and vastly more damage than a slow-moving, heavily laden horse truck. Mr. J. A. Brodie of Liverpool, gave his experience with the use of macadam. We quote from the Times on this point:

As an example of Mr. Brodie's proposed standard, he gave figures showing that with Penmaenmaur and other Carnarvonshire stone, heavy traffic streets paved with dressed setts 6x6x4in. on a concrete bed with small sand bed and joints thoroughly raked with hard shingle and grouted with permanent pitch mixture, which prevents any movement of the stones and renders the whole surface impervious to weather, give at the equal to at least 7 1-2 million tons per yard width—at least, a life of from 25 to 30 years without important repairs. At the same rate the life of the similar but shallower 4in. deep sett construction would, in a street having a traffic of 60,000 tons per yard width per annum, have a life of 100 years. Ordinary macadam of the same stone only gives a life corresponding to 100,000 tons per year; while the same material used in pitch macadam in which every stone at the surface is held up to its work firmly encased so that no movement and stone wearing stone can occur, will have a life of at least 750,000 tons per yard width, or 7 1-2 times that of ordinary macadam. Mr. Brodie described a further experiment—namely, with macadam concrete blocks, which have given excellent results in a street having 250,000 tons of traffic per yard width; but one of the most promising road-making experiments he has made is with what he calls a small-stone surface. This is a surface made with 2 1-4 in. cubes of the same stone, which can be obtained at very slightly greater cost than that of the same stone for ordinary macadam. These stones are hand-laid on a depth of small broken stone on a bed of concrete. The broken material of the bed is grouted with the pitch mixture used in Liverpool, and the joints of the surface are raked with small hard shingle and the pitch, and this is expected to have a life of 30 years under the average conditions of traffic on county roads. It must be noted that in the tonnage records which Mr. Brodie uses, the weight of the horses is not counted, but it is obvious that this weight should come into the account as well as the weight on the vehicle wheels.

We suggest that some of the points brought out in the discussion at the above mentioned association may be well worth consideration by our municipal officials. The experience of English cities, where the climate is not very dissimilar to ours ought to be an excellent guide. Surely if they can contemplate a paving that will have a life of 100 years, we ought to be able to devise something better than we have to put up with here.

A WARNING

The death of young Ian Cameron has a lesson for others than young boys. With the increase of population in Victoria has come an increase of vehicular traffic of all kinds, and the people cannot with impunity be as careless as they used to be in the days when the streets were less crowded than they now are, and there were fewer vehicles of all kinds. When we had only single car-tracks, one could with perfect safety alight from a car and cross the street without looking out for another car. This cannot be done where the tracks are double. Some points are specially dangerous such as the crossing at Belleville and Government streets, the post office and the corner of Yates and Douglas. At these points and indeed wherever cars pass each other the going on the moving car, if only one is moving, should be sounded continuously until the stationary car has been passed. If both cars are moving the gongs on both should invariably be sounded just before they meet. But a duty rests upon the public and every person alighting from a car to cross to the opposite side of the street should never step upon the other track until quite sure that there is no car near. These are very primitive directions, but we are just emerging from the primitive stage in street traffic here.

Another matter may be mentioned. The congestion of traffic on Government street on Saturday night is becoming serious, especially at the points of junction with Yates and Fort, and the former particularly. The sidewalks are always crowded on Saturday evening. Last Saturday night, for example, many people had to walk in the carriage way, and there was nothing to bring out more pedestrians than usual. The police will have to be very much on the alert to prevent accidents, especially from motors, the drivers of which are not always as careful as they ought to be. A week or two ago a little before 10 p. m. on a Saturday a motor car came down Yates and swung into Government street at a rate not much under thirty miles an hour. The chauffeur took his chances on the street being clear, and fortunately it was at that particular moment, but a minute later it was full of people. Such an act should be followed by arrest and prosecution. Next year the Esquimalt cars will probably make a lay by way of Yates, Douglas and Bay streets. Yates between Douglas and Government will then be the scene of very congested traffic. The police would be wise to get into the way of regulating it.

It is interesting to learn that in establishing a department of aerial navigation the British government is in advance of all the other powers. So much has been said in regard to the backwardness of the home authorities in this line of experiment that it is satisfactory to be told that the arrangements in progress are very thorough and that all necessary funds will be forthcoming.

FLAX CULTURE

The adaptability of Vancouver Island to the cultivation of flax is well known, and probably the only reason why the industry is not extensively prosecuted is the lack of a market, which, in its turn is due to the length of time necessary to handle the product. By the methods in use in all parts of the world, from the earliest times until recently, fourteen weeks are necessary to get flax ready for spinning and four or five more for bleaching the linen. This was reduced to a considerably shorter period and now a process has been invented whereby flax can be converted into a perfectly bleached linen fibre in twenty-four hours. This will revolutionize the flax industry and may lead to linen becoming cheaper than cotton. Good flax straw will yield 47 per cent of spinning fibre. If we estimate the yield per acre at 2 tons of straw, we would have 940 lbs. of spinning fibre. At 5 cents a pound this would yield $47.00 per acre, and there would be left the seed for sale and the woody fibre as a fertilizer. A recent estimate is that at 3 cents a pound for the spinning fibre, flax culture would be very profitable. Cotton in the bale is from 10 to 13 cents a pound, and as it costs as much to spin the one as the other, linen can be placed upon the market at a much lower cost than cotton cloth. Vast quantities of flax are grown in the prairie provinces for the seed alone and it is suggested that plants should be established for the manufacture of linen. The most hopeful anticipations of the future of this industry are indulged in by those who have given it consideration. Flax culture is especially adapted to the irrigated lands. Enormous quantities of flax straw are burned in the prairie provinces every year, although the greater part of it in quality and length of fibre exceeds the average straw used in Russia for the manufacture of linen. The cotton crop of the United States has given that country a unique position in the commerce of the world and it seems as if, among Canada's other sources of future greatness, the production of linen may gain her a similar supremacy.

CARE NEEDED

We have some reason for supposing that an effort is about to be made to bring the coal miners of Vancouver Island under the control of the United Mine Workers of America with the view of precipitating a strike in sympathy with those at Nicola and the Crow's Nest Pass. We are well aware of the delicate nature of any effort the Colonist or any other paper may make to prevent the miners from being misled by specious arguments and plausible appeals to their sympathy; but the record of this paper in relation to organized labor is such that we feel we will not be misunderstood by the majority of the miners, when we advise them to exercise the utmost care before they yield to any solicitation to which they may be subjected by any one who seeks to tie up the coal mining industry here. Before they give their assent to any proposals that may be made, they would do well to find what is at the bottom of the trouble at the other British Columbia mines. They may discover, if they do so, that the miners now on strike are the victims of a conspiracy on the part of one of the great corporations, which for purposes of its own desires to paralyze the coal mining industry in this province temporarily. The evidence so far given in regard to the Nicola case, and it is practically all in, shows that strike to have been engineered and that the miners generally have not and do not pretend to have any cause of complaint against their employers. A case was worked up with considerable care so that there would be some appearance of justification for the action which the men were urged to take. Meanwhile these men are the worst losers of all. The mine owners can stop, and they will not have to spend a dollar less on necessities or luxuries. Not so with the miners; and by and bye the latter will go back to work without a single advantage gained by them. How much the undisclosed promoters of the strike will gain is another story. We earnestly recommend the miners of Vancouver Island to investigate very closely and probe to their very foundation any reasons that may be advanced why they should go on strike at this time.

The British Columbia peach crop is going to be light this year. Now, Mr. Secretary for Agriculture, while we have not the least doubt you are right in your foreboding, for you generally are about such things, we hope you are not going to get into the habit of telling us about a failure of the peach crop. You would appreciate the point of this observation if for about a quarter of a century, more or less, you had annually received from the Associated Press a telegram stating that "the peach crop will be a failure." The peach crop is always a failure according to these telegrams.

The longest English drought in recent times was in March-April, 1893. It lasted twenty-nine days. To bleach curtains boil with them a few tansy leaves in a bag.

NEW REED ROCKER 3

FINE VALUES IN REED ROCKERS

WE ARE SHOWING some fine Reed Rockers and are offering splendid values in these chair styles. We also have some new arrivals in Arm Chairs, Reception and "Occasional" Chairs in Reed.

The construction of these chairs is a "feature" worth while. They are made to withstand lots of real hard wear—built to last. So often cheap reed chair styles shake to pieces quickly, rockers are cut in such a manner as to make the chair tilt to an uncomfortable angle.

All these disagreeable features are eliminated in these chairs, and at the prices we believe that you'll agree they are about the best values in the city.

We also have some fine new arrivals in Reed Arm Chairs, Reed Reception Chairs, and in "Occasional" Chairs.

NO SOLUTION TO SIDNEY MYSTERY

Week's Search Fails to Discover Fate of Missing Men and Boy

After a search lasting nearly a week mystery still surrounds the disappearance of W. Lambert, J. O'Neill and the latter's five-year old son, who left Sidney on the evening of Tuesday, May 18, at 5 o'clock, in a small boat bound for the Sidney Brick & Tile company's plant, three miles away, and were last seen by an Indian near James Island, evidently heading in the direction of San Juan Island. Day after day the search for the missing has been prosecuted by the provincial police authorities as well as by friends of the missing three, but up to date not the slightest trace of the boat or its occupants has been found. That the two men and the child found watery graves during the gale which prevailed on the evening of the day on which they set out from Sidney is the belief, but that not a trace of the boat has as yet been found, despite the week's search is strange.

Provincial Constable Lumley yesterday afternoon telephoned Superintendent of Police Hussey that so far the hunt has been unsuccessful. Constable Lumley, who is thoroughly conversant with the whole coast in that locality, sent in his message from Friday Harbor, San Juan Island. No trace of the missing could be discovered there and the entire coast for miles in either direction as well as the shores of the many islands in the gulf have been searched. So extensive, however, is the shore line and so many the currents that it is possible, and in fact probable, that the boat were it capsize, might float into some secluded bay and remain there unnoticed. Superintendent Hussey on receiving Constable Lumley's message, instructed him to continue the search which will be kept up until all hope of solving the mystery of the disappearance of the three missing people has vanished.

Permanent Shapeliness in Outing Suits

There is only one thing that can make an Outing Suit hold its shape. That's hand tailoring.

Summer Tweeds and Worsteds, Flannels and Serges, must be moulded in shape by hand—and held in shape by hand stitching—in order to stay in shape.

Fit-Reform Outing Suits keep their style and their proportions, because they are hand tailored.

NEWS OF THE CITY

Organ Recital

An organ recital will be given in St. John's church on Friday evening next at 8 o'clock by the organist, Mr. G. Jennings Burnett, who will be assisted by the choir of St. John's and other local talent.

Looking For His Son.

Robert Cowen, Boulder Creek, Santa Cruz county, California, has written the Colonist inquiring of the whereabouts of his son W. H. Cowen who left his home with the intention of going north. He is a mining blacksmith by trade. Anyone knowing of the young man's present whereabouts is requested to inform the father.

A Busy Scene.

Seldom have Victorians witnessed such a scene of bustle and movement as was observed yesterday at the noon hour when the steamers from the Sound were discharging their crowds of holiday seekers at James Bay. For a time there was such congestion of traffic on the Causeway in front of the Empress hotel as to require vehicles to stop until the jam was broken.

Will Visit Victoria.

J. W. Fegan, the founder of Fegan's Boys' Home at Southwark, Ramsgate and Stony Stratford, England, and at Toronto, Ont., is expected to be in Victoria on Sunday and Monday, June 13 and 14, and arrangements are in progress for special meetings to be addressed by him. It is anticipated that Mr. Fegan will preach in the Church of Our Lord on the Sunday morning and address meetings in the Grand theatre in the afternoon.

Impressive Services.

Very impressive were the services at the Centennial Methodist church, Gorge road on Sunday, when the pastor, Rev. S. J. Thompson, delivered a thoughtful and instructive address to the Sons of England and kindred societies. The attendance was large and the musical arrangements notably excellent. On Sunday evening next, Rev. Mr. Thompson, who is leaving his present charge will preach his farewell sermon and members of the congregation have made such arrangements as will make the occasion a memorable one.

Record Street Car Travel.

It is unofficially stated that the volume of passenger traffic handled by the local branch of the B.C. Electric Railway Company yesterday exceeded all previous records in the history of the company in the city. While this was mainly due no doubt to the fact that the number of visitors for the holidays was much greater than in previous seasons, the company found the Foul Bay branch a busy one yesterday. On the whole, the service maintained by the company was a satisfactory one, the limitations of the rolling stock being considered, but had many more additional cars been employed they would have been filled to their capacity most of the day.

The Empress "Booked Up."

Had the Empress Hotel treble its rooming capacity, it is doubtful if it would even then be in a position to accommodate the number of guests seeking admission within its gates during the season which has just opened. It is now practically "booked up" for the summer months by far-sighted travelers who realized how great would be the demand upon its accommodation. It is understood that during the recent visit to Victoria of Hayter Reed, superintendent of C.P.R. hotels, the decision was finally reached to proceed in October next with the erection of the additional wing on the south end of the present structure. In view of the experience since the hotel opened, it is not improbable that at no distant date even this addition will be found inadequate.

Business Development.

An interesting phase of the business development in Victoria, which has assumed quite remarkable proportions, is that the sites on lower Government street have sprung into a sudden demand owing to the fact that it is that section of the city where the nimble squire of the incoming visitor will first be gathered by those with an eye to the main chance. It is related that several flattering offers have been made for the use, for the summer months of the vacant lot on the west side of government street between Fraser's drug store and the meat market. The parties seeking the lease of the lot intend putting up a large tent and conducting a restaurant. As high as $250 was offered for the use of the property in this way, but was refused. The lot is owned by the Hudson Bay Company.

Back From Rupert.

J. Fred Ritchie, C. E., who represents the provincial government in the steel work under way at Prince Rupert, returned from the northern port on Saturday. He says the weather has been delightfully fine for the past few weeks quite to the surprise of those who had been erroneously informed regarding climatic conditions there. Prince Rupert is full of visitors who are anxiously awaiting the sale of lots which takes place at Vancouver on Wednesday. Mr. Ritchie anticipates that much building will take place at the new city this summer and fall, as considerable lumber has been shipped there already. It is understood that because of some delay with the plans for the sale of lots which have been in course of preparation by the Grand Trunk Railway company, C. D. Rand who will conduct the auction at Vancouver Wednesday next finds himself considerably hampered in his task of making preparation for that event.

This is the Spot for Dotted Hosiery. Ladies' Fine Black Cotton Hose, with different size white dots. Regular 35c a pair; special price, 25c a pair. Robinson's Cash Store, 642 Yates street.

WILL MANAGE THE LOCAL PULP CO.

J. B. Beveridge, of Well Known Quebec Company, Has Accepted Appointment

The Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Company have engaged Mr. Beveridge, the present mill manager of the Canada Paper Mills of Windsor, Quebec, to take the exclusive management of the local company, which is now erecting its plant at Quatsino Sound. The resignation of Mr. Beveridge as mill manager of the Canada Paper Mills is to take immediate effect, and he is expected to arrive in Victoria, preparatory to taking up the work of the Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Co., within the next thirty days. In Mr. Beveridge, the local company have succeeded in securing a man of the highest of qualifications for the position as manager. Prior to his connection with the Canada Paper Mills, Mr. Beveridge served in the capacity as mill manager of the Miramichi Pulp & Paper Co., of New Brunswick, and was formerly connected in a similar capacity with the Koller-Partington mills of England. He is considered an expert in the manufacture of both book, news and wrapping paper, as well as the manufacture of mechanical and sulphite pulp. The Canada Paper Mills, of which Mr. Beveridge is now mill manager, is one of the oldest and most successful mills of Canada. They were formerly manufacturers exclusively of book, fibre and high grade writing stock, but recently established the St. Francis mills for the manufacture of news, in which they are now operating the largest paper machine in Canada with a capacity of 40 tons of news print per day.

In referring to the engagement of Mr. Beveridge, Mr. Kolls of the local company stated yesterday that he believed that the Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Company had secured one of the very best men in the country for the position as manager. "I had the pleasure of meeting him," continued Mr. Kolls, "on my recent Eastern trip, and not only did he impress me with his unusual ability as a paper maker, but the fact that he was prepared to consider a proposition to resign his present splendid position to accept the management of our company was evidence that he is not afraid of pioneer work, and the thousand details incident to the opening up of a new mill. He is thoroughly enthusiastic regarding the future of Western Canada in the manufacture of wood pulp and paper, and thoroughly believed that within five years British Columbia will become a great paper mill in the manufacture of these products. He is just the kind of a man we want to assist in the building of this great industry in the western country."

OBITUARY NOTICES

Cameron

The funeral of Ian Cameron will take place this afternoon, from Hanna's chapel at 2 o'clock. Services will be held in the First Presbyterian church at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. Dr. Campbell will officiate.

Bell

The funeral of Alexander Wallace Bell, who died in the St. Joseph's hospital on Saturday last, will take place on Wednesday afternoon from Hanna's chapel at 3:30 p. m. The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. J. McRae. The late Mr. Bell was well known in Victoria, having been a resident here for many years. He was a native of Ingersoll, Ont., and fifty-three years of age. He leaves, besides his wife, two sons and one daughter. The funeral will be under the auspices of the I. O. O. F., of which order the late Mr. Bell was a member.

Neelds.

The death occurred Sunday morning at the residence of her daughter Mrs. E. H. Neelds, 1725 Cook street of the late Robert H. Langdale, relict of the late Robertson H. Langdale, at the age of 71 years. The deceased lady, who leaves a grown up family was born in Whitby, Yorkshire, England. She had been ailing for about one year and a half, death being due to chronic bronchitis. The remains were removed to the chapel of the B. C. Funeral Furnishing company and were forwarded by Monday's charmer to Vancouver for interment.

Holloway.

The funeral of the late Robert Holloway took place Sunday afternoon from the family residence, Fairbairn road at 2:30 and proceeded to St. James church where services were conducted by the Rev. J. S. H. Sweet. The following hymns were sung: "Abide With Me," and "Rock of Ages." Many old-time friends attended. The members of the Typographical union attended in a body. The following acted as pallbearers: Col. Wolfenden, E. Fawcett, R. J. Butler, J. Pottinger, J. Hall and J. C. Newbury.

FOR SALE

AN ATTRACTIVE PROPOSITION

A very attractive proposition in the way of a small fruit and chicken ranch has been just placed with us on the market. It is situated on the Saanich Peninsula overlooking Elk Lake and commands a fine view of the water. There are nine acres in the piece, and it is offered as a going concern, with stock and implements complete.

The house is small but new, and with a little addition would be quite comfortable for a fair-sized family. There are numerous out-buildings, all quite new and in good condition.

The soil has been proved to be exactly suited to fruit-growing, being loose, and capable of being worked up to form a fine mulch, holding the moisture through the driest summer months. Strawberries and all small fruits do splendidly, and on this character of soil and situation strawberries come to maturity very early, assuring the top market price. There are now 2,000 plants out, these will be in full bearing next year.

There are 100 fruit trees of the choicest varieties, four years old; 100 raspberry and 40 rhubarb plants; enough has been done to make a nice start and show the capabilities of the place, which, with a little work can be made into a beautiful and profitable ranch. The stock includes horses, 2 cows and 2 calves, buggy, harness, implements, including a spraying outfit, and all dairy necessities. Also there is on the ground one hundred dollars worth of lumber and shingles, sufficient to make a considerable addition to the house.

The stove, tables, linoleum, blinds, etc., go with the premises.

There is a good and never-failing supply of water. The distance from town is seven miles, railway station within one mile.

Splendid road to property.
PRICE $2,400.

REGATTA PROVES HUGE SUCCESS

Large Crowds Witness Most Popular Event of Victoria Day at the Gorge

RACES WERE WELL CONTESTED

Indian War Canoe Events Exciting—Arrangements Are Excellent

The regatta celebration of Victoria Day was brought off at the Gorge yesterday with all the old-time elat, and was probably better attended than on any previous occasion since its inauguration.

REGATTA AT THE GORGE—Klootchman's Crews lining up for the start.

guration. Fully 8,000 people were present. Every coign of vantage on both sides of the beautiful waterway was crowded with people, and during the different events the utmost enthusiasm was displayed. The Gorge has rarely looked more beautiful than yesterday. The afternoon was an ideal one, a cloudless sky and a warm sun contributing to a crowded day of excitement and interest. On the shore there were booths of numerous descriptions and refreshments galore, all of which were well patronized throughout the afternoon and evening. From 11 a. m. onward the cars making Gorgewards were crowded to their capacity. About 1 water in the second event. In this item four crews competed, the Algerine having two entries and the Garrison also having a crew. The start was a bad one, the Shearwater losing half a length her bow catching a crab when striking the water at the word "go." Number one crew of H. M. S. Algerine got off well and before two hundred yards had been covered the race resolved itself into a struggle between this crew and the Shearwaters. The latter commenced to gain rapidly, all pulling a powerful stroke, and hurling the heavy whaler through the water. Long before reaching Deadman's Island the Shearwater, despite their bad start were in the lead, and from this time to being Valdez, with Cooper Island second and North Saanich third. Valdez won by three-quarters of a length.

The Single Sculls

W. N. Kennedy proved himself the best sculler in Victoria in the succeeding event, a single skiff race in which there were three entries, the others being C. Chunggraves and W. Lawson. Kennedy went away at the starting signal and pulling well within himself was never troubled, winning easily by two and three-quarter lengths.

An immense amount of interest centered around the Klootchman's race, in which three crews of the dusky fair sex took part. If not displaying as much power as their better halves, they o'clock the different craft commenced to make their way up stream from the harbor. Several hundred were in audience during the event, many of them gaily decorated, and nearly all carrying a Union Jack.

The scene along the waterfront while the regatta was in progress was one of striking interest. On either side the craft of almost every different variety from cots to motor launches, were drawn up in cordons. At the intervals between the races the boats would shoot out into the stream, and the patrol launch at work in clearing the course had a difficult task to keep the waterway clear.

The scene in general formed a beautiful kaleidoscope of color. The sloping banks on either side rich with green foliage, made a remarkable contrast with the gaily bedecked boats on the inlet. There was animation everywhere, and no cessation in the enjoyment and interest while the regatta lasted, from 2 p. m. until after 6 p. m.

Gradually increasing their lead the men from Commander Crawford's sloop crossed the winning line a good ten lengths to the good. The Garrison were third, number two crew of the Algerine failing to make any impression on the leaders.

The most exciting event in the entire regatta was witnessed in the third race in which seven Indian war canoes competed. This race which has become known as the redmen's rowing championship of British Columbia, was for war canoes of from 40 to 50 feet in length. The boats got away to a splendid start. The crews from Cowichan and Kuper Island had a slight advantage after the first hundred yards had been traversed. All seven boats were pulling splendidly, the whirlpool stroke being exemplified, and its wonderful accuracy being commented upon by everyone. Each boat's crew seemed like a machine, and despite the trying course, which was round Deadman's Island and back to the starting point paddled just as scientifically, and infused a tremendous amount of energy into the work. The crew from Klover Klemmets, who got away to a good start, in which they gained nearly half a boat's length, eventually proved the winners, the margin between them and the crew from Valdez being a full two and a half lengths. When the three craft were rounding the buoy in the course an interesting exhibition of jockeying for position was witnessed, in which the Klemmets outbattered their opponents.

The final of the four-oared lap-streak race proved a fiasco. A crowded launch obstructed the course, shutting

HERE AND THERE

About Fashions

One begins to wonder if the women of our own time are more lavish in their expenditure or more prone to change the fashion of their dress than those of former days when grave and reverend writers, like the editor of the London Times, turn their attention to the subject of the fashions. Pictures of Queen Elizabeth, half-happless, but very lovely cousin Mary, of Scotland, and other beauties of that far-away time, with their enormous muffs and gowns of richest material, tell us that, powerful and learned as many of these ladies were, greatly as they differed in aims and motives, opinions or belief, the style of the dress worn by them was but slightly varied to suit the taste and the form of the wearer.

In the time of the Georges, the ladies of the court, fair or dark, tall or short, stout or slender, all wore those enormous masses of powdered hair, familiar to us in pictures of the time.

Crinolines which were worn forty or fifty years ago, with their enormous skirts, silk or satin or muslin they made necessary, were certainly not less extravagant, in any sense of the word, than the dress of women of today.

In England during the last few years there have been a series of pageants in which the history of the past of various localities has been made to live again before the eyes of the people. How much would these have lost in interest if, from the time of Alfred the Great, to the present, English men and women had worn the same costumes. All down the centuries there have been changes in manners and customs.

The sternness of the Puritan rule or the strictness of Methodist discipline, could not long prevail upon women to retain the plainness of attire which at the beginning of these movements was considered becoming. The Quakers, indeed, wore for many generations, the not unbecoming garb which the founders of their sect considered in keeping with the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, but today few of the "Friends," are to be distinguished from other ladies of their station by their dress.

There are not wanting signs that the women, who in the Salvation Army, devote their lives to the uplifting of their fellow-men and women, will, some day, change the fashion of the dress which distinguishes them. It seems as though all who live in the world must yield to its changing fashions and only those women, who, like the religious orders, live apart from its struggles, rivalries and competitions, can retain the same dress. There may be some among us, who, seeing and feeling the peace of many a face that looks out from the black or grey hood with its border of white, think that the owner is to be envied, while others see in the dress a symbol of a monotony that would prove unendurable.

Though changes in fashion have characterized the world of women in all ages, there is still a great difference between our own and past times. No longer does the dress of a woman among people of British descent proclaim her birth or rank. The working woman's dress is made after the same pattern and often of similar material to that of her sister who has no need to count the dollars she spends on her wardrobe.

This is one of the signs of the democracy most of us worship. It is this that makes the changes in fashion have a real importance. While it does not matter to the owner of a husband is owner of a great estate or to the daughter of a millionaire, that the hat, the cloak or the gown must be laid aside or altered in a few weeks or, at most, months, the mechanic's wife or the girl in a store finds this burden hard to bear. The woman in moderate circumstances must be content to buy cheaper material or to wear old-fashioned clothes. Even within the memory of women, not yet old, there has been a great change in this respect. No longer is the black silk dress kept for great occasions. Those who cannot afford to wear silk every evening, very wisely, do not buy it for any occasion. The great progress of the manufacturing industry has made it possible to obtain beautiful materials at a comparatively low price, so that it depends far more on the taste of the wearer than on the length of her purse whether she shall be well dressed or not.

When all this is granted, it is yet too true that in the endeavor to be dressed in the fashion, far too many women spend money which they can ill spare. There is, however, among women, not only in moderate circumstances, but among those who have unlimited means, a growing disposition to consult their own taste and to refuse to wear what does not become them, at the bidding of Dame Fashion. Nor are these women regardless of appearances. On the contrary, some among them, like Queen Alexandra, make the most of the beauty with which Providence has endowed them. It is to such women that we must look for release from a very real tyranny.

When this is accomplished, there will still be uniformity enough to mark the time as distinct from any that have gone before. There will always be those who, through love of display or wish for notoriety, will tax the ingenuity of milliners and modistes, but the greater number of women will refuse to follow their lead. This reform is one that can be brought about by women dressed with beauty, good taste and common sense.

Scarcity of Teachers.

The scarcity of teachers both in British Columbia and the prairie provinces indicates that there are wide opportunities for young men and women in this western country. It seems only the other day that the only career open to a young woman of intelligence was that of a teacher, and when ambitious young men looked upon teaching as the best stepping stone to the professions. All this is changed. A girl need no longer teach unless she feels that she has a special aptitude for the work, and a lad can earn the money needed to put him through college much more quickly in other employment. Indeed, it is becoming difficult to retain the services of young men in any but the highest positions in the schools. In our own province it has been found necessary to open the door of the schools to teachers from other parts of Canada, and in the Middle West teachers from Great Britain have been invited to come and help in the education of the young.

There is little doubt that, so far as women are concerned, the greater opportunities for obtaining work have been a benefit to the schools. The teachers who enter the profession now do so from a sense that this work is what they are best fitted for. They have a genuine love for children, and find a pleasure in teaching. The scarcity of men is a loss to the country schools, especially, the old teacher was often a most useful citizen. Intellectually he was often superior to his neighbors, and his education made him a leader of thought. In debating clubs and at political meetings he showed his power. Sometimes he may have had too high a sense of his own attainments, but contact with his fellows soon robbed him of the conceit which is often the fault of able youths. The school, too, was good training for him, and by the time he was ready to enter some other sphere his mind had widened, and he had gained in self-reliance. Not seldom he had filled the minds of his pupils and associates with worthy ambitions and high ideals. Too few such teachers are left in any province of Canada. The best of our women teachers throughout the country enter into the social life of the district, and their influence is good, as that of educated and refined women is everywhere. That the admission into the ranks of the teachers of any province of those from other parts of Canada will be a benefit is not open to question. Every such teacher, if she is of the right stamp, broadens the outlook of her pupils. Large as our province is there is always a danger of becoming provincial. We are too apt to forget that we are but a part of a great country. The newcomer will not only have brought with her a love for her own province, but she will have gained during her journey a sense of the greatness of Canada. There is not the slightest danger that the newcomer will not be impressed with the beauty, the grandeur, and the vast possibilities of her adopted province.

It seems as if the plan taken by our Council of Public Instruction was wiser than that of Alberta. While the English teachers who have entered our colleges and special schools are doing excellent work, it may be fairly granted that in the country districts Canadian teachers will, at present, be the most useful. They understand the conditions of the country better. They do not need, as it were, to be acclimatized before they can do their best work. However, the highest class of British teachers bring, as they go, a culture and a sound learning that are invaluable in any community. The education of the youth of Canada is a task of which the importance is not always recognized, even by the parents of the children. When it is, the teachers will be more carefully selected, as well as more highly esteemed.

The Carlyles.

The shades of Carlyles, Thomas and Jane, will hardly be blushing at the sight of their love letters recently published in two volumes by John Lane. The editor is not an executor of the estate, but a sense of duty and justice to two very irascible and difficult friends, but a relative of Carlyles, undertaking at this late date the office of vindicator.

The Carlyles loved the limelight; fame was as the breath of their nostrils, and nothing could wound them so deeply as falling into oblivion. But so long as a page of Carlyle manuscript remains unpublished, the public memory will revolve at intervals gentle joys, and then the fat is in the fire again.

In one of her letters, written shortly before marriage, Miss Welsh exclaims: "I love you, but I am not in love with you," to which Carlyle replies: "I do not love you with a tithe of that affection which you might merit and obtain from me," and then explains at length exactly why. The state of matrimony should have entered through the door of dreams, if it is to be endured with equanimity for life. What could be expected of people who spoke their mind so freely even upon the threshold?

Spring.

(Chorus from 'Atalanta')
Come with bows bent and with emptying of quivers,
Maiden most precious, lady of light,
With a noise of winds and many rivers,
With a clamor of waters and with might;
Blind on thy sandals, O thou most fleet,
Over the splendour and speed of thy feet;
For the faint east quickens, the wan west shivers,
Round the feet of the day and the feet of the night.
For winter's rains and ruins are over,
And all the seasons of snows and sins;
The days dividing lover and lover,
The light that loses, the night that wins;
And time remembered is grief forgotten,
And frosts are slain and flowers begotten,
And in green underwood and cover
Blossom by blossom the spring begins.
—Algernon Charles Swinburne.

Frank Marion Crawford

If by any chance you arrive in Sorrento, ignorant of the name and fame of Marion Crawford, such darkness is quickly dispelled. Even as you climb the perilous stairs winding from sandy beach through vineyards, to the top of the famous cliffs, you are accosted by urchins eager to lead you to the villa of the signor Crawford, the great or good, or magnificent romance. The adjectives rather than the man, express the quality of his works, and express the love of people, who knew him well, among whom he died. To die in one of the most romantic spots on earth and to be followed to the grave by a mourning populace seems to round off Mr. Crawford's career with dramatic fitness. Circumstances marked him for a romantic novelist. Born in Bagna di Lucca, of a clever Scotch father, and beautiful American mother, given a cosmopolitan education, at the age of twenty-five he had seen enough of the world and the wonder thereof to supply a legion of novelists with material. Yet he applied himself to the art of fiction with great self-distrust. Many stories used to be told about the composition of his first novel, "Mr. Isaacs," and it probably was suggested by his uncle, "Sam" Ward (widely known in his day as a wit and connoisseur), who may have thought his nephew too good for New York journalism, and his brilliant talk worth a larger audience than could be gathered round a dinner table. With "Mr. Isaacs" successfully launched the author was "away" and for more than a quarter of a century he went the pace, producing enjoyable novels, the scenes of which were laid all over the earth, with characters as varied and picturesque as a Monte Carlo crowd.

His talent was conspicuously objective, a talent for representing what he saw and heard and felt in a natural and pleasing fashion; when he became subjective he would wander aimlessly rather pathetically, on the fringe of the infinite, and coast back to solid earth with joy as if to say "There! the introspectives have had their sop; now you and I, good fellows all, will go on with the story."

As his work was done from life, and not from books, he escaped the blighting influence of schools and the orators. By virtue of his manliness and personal rectitude, he escaped, too, infection from European naturalists and decadents, by whom he lived surrounded. Though he is counted among the greatest of the modern style, and his manner are of the Victorian-English tradition, and his language that of an Englishman and a gentleman. Nothing in his books contradicts the enthusiastic epithets showered upon him by the children of Sorrento.—Montreal Witness.

Mrs. Ogilvie Gordon.

Among the learned women who will be present at the Quinquennial Congress is Mrs. Ogilvie Gordon, honorary corresponding secretary of the International Council of Women. Mrs. Gordon is the wife of Dr. John Gordon, of Aberdeen, and the eldest daughter of the late Rev. Alexander Ogilvie, a friend of a family of well-known educationalists. Mrs. Gordon was gold medalist in zoology and comparative anatomy under Sir E. Ray Lankester, University College, London, 1889-90; graduated D.Sc., 1893, London University; studied geology and palaeontology, Munich University, 1891-95, and was awarded the Ph.D. degree with the highest honors in 1900, when the degree was for the first time conferred on women by that University; was elected Fellow of the Linnean Society of London in 1906, when that society for the first time admitted Fellows, and a Fellow of the Royal Physical Society on the first admission of women Fellows in 1909. She is a vice-president of the National Council of Women of Great Britain and Ireland, and a vice-president of the Scottish Association for the Promotion of Women's Public Work.

Mrs. Gordon has contributed many new geological observations regarding the volcanic and dynamic phenomena in the "Dismal" of South Tyrol, and has investigated the fine microscopical structure of the skeleton of corals, both fossil and recent. She is the author of numerous geological publications.

A Prophet of Empire.

A prophet in a frock coat. The lean, ascetic figure; the face worn with toil and thought; the high, intellectual forehead—these things lead one to think of the prophet. And a prophet of Empire Lord Milne is. He has the clear, penetrating vision—the single eye and the single mind which clears away sophistry and reduces things to their elements, which far more than any gift of supernatural foresight, is the true quality of the prophet. His philosophical training under Jowett at Balliol, his early experience in journalism, his years of toil at the details of finance in Egypt; these were but the wanderings in the wilderness. But when came the period of service as Governor of the Cape and High Commissioner of South Africa, when he bore upon his shoulders a burden heavier, perhaps than that carried by the majority of those around him, vilified by party politics at home, he bore steadily on to his end, spending and spent for the good of his country.

Why Some Women are Tall.

Of all places to concern itself about the affairs of women one would fancy that the war office of Great Britain would be the most unlikely. Yet it appears that in this department women are employed as typewriters. The heads of this department have found that women are more often away on sick leave than men. They believe there is no need for this and have sent a circular to them pointing out some of the breaches of the laws of hygiene of which women are guilty. This with some of the admissions of the typewriters themselves is given below.

Excessive drinking of tea, especially between meals or with lunch, is not only the cause of numerous nerve and heart troubles, but also leads frequently to indigestion and other serious internal complaints.

Attention must be given to the importance of warm clothes. The want of these often account for the susceptibility to drafts and consequent fear of ventilation.

Short sleeves and transparent lace fronts are dangerous traps, and it is unfair to one's constitution to make unnecessary demands upon its resisting powers by wearing such garments without adequate safeguards.

Some of the typewriters acknowledge that many of the ills of femininity are due to ignorance in dietary matters.

Dear Sirs—I am pleased to state that I have used Gaverhill's Barley Flakes regularly for several months past and have found them a palatable, nourishing and easily digested food.

THEY ARE MY FAVORITE breakfast food and I can warmly recommend them. Yours truly,

The reason is plain. A portion of the starch having been changed to grape sugar produces a delicious flavor in the flakes and makes them so easily digested.

The minister of a certain parish in Scotland was walking one misty night through a street in the village when he fell into a deep hole. There was no ladder by which he could make his escape, and he began to shout for help. A laborer passing heard his cries, and, looking down, asked who he was. The minister told him, whereupon the laborer remarked: "Weel, weel, ye needna' kick up sic a noise. You'll no be needed afore Sawbath, an' this is only Wednesday night."—The Argonaut.

fumbled. When his alarm clock awoke him Campbell had tallied one run, and Stott was clinging to second. Boccock died on a foul fly, and then Myers came.

Surely Was
"He's nifty with the stick," whispered a fan.

He sure was. He met the first ball pitched fairly on the nose, and while George Burnes clambered to the upper rail of the fence it was rolling away out on the hillside beyond Topaz avenue, and at last advices were still going. His homer brought Stott in, and tallied three. McClelland, who is said to be one Dolly Gray, who played half a season for Vancouver, and was replaced by Mun-dorff because he was not strong enough with the timber, was thrown out at first, and then Bennett came. McConnell fumbled his liner, and presented him with the first bag, while catcher Spencer gave him second, when he threw a wild one. DeNeffe got a pass, and with the second and third bags occupied, it looked like more work for the scorer until Oswald struck out.

Victoria started as though Klopff's men really meant it. McConnell and Plummer had struck out before Wattelet started things with a liner to the left garden, and Klopff put him to second with one to the same place, while Davis got a pass and filled the sacks.

"Oh, you Spencer," yelled a small boy. "Hit it on the nose." The catcher never heard him, or struck out and left the three to die on the bags.

Curfew did not ring, neither then or at any other time during the tragedy—no comedy. Yet the gong was worn through tallying runs for the webfooters.

Various Vagaries
There was no bell-ringing for some innings then. In the second Wattelet made a spectacular catch, and in the fourth Burnes clasped his maulers tightly on one, while Bennett was hiking for the home plate. In the first of the fifth the Colts awakened for a few brief moments, and although Peden allowed two hits they allowed no runs. In the second half Stott, Portland's catcher, did a prize stunt. After Peden had struck out he let the ball drop, and when the smile ran he lumbered after him like an ice-wagon and finally tossed the ball to the first baseman, who dropped it. McConnell's hit sent Peden on, and he stole third.

It was up to Wattelet. A long wallop would have tied the score; but Wattelet struck out. Multonomah took another three in the sixth. Myers took the first sack on a hot liner sent to third, and McClelland sent him on with one lifted over second. Bennett flew out on an infield pop, and DeNeffe drove one to first, who threw McClelland out at second, and let DeNeffe in on fielder's choice. Myers meanwhile tried to steal home, and after all hands and the cook played tag for some minutes between the bags he finally landed safe again on third.

The whole thing might have ended then; but it didn't. Peden did it. When Oswald lined an easy one to him he threw the sphere high over first base, and let both Myers and DeNeffe to the plate, and, to make matters worse, Sherer put up a fly to Northcott in the right garden, and he let it go while Oswald slid home too. When Campbell advanced Sherer to third it looked like still another tally until Stott struck out. This made six, and Victoria had still the row of spheres that signified nothing, absolutely nothing, chalked up.

"We Are Seven"—Runs
In the seventh Multonomah took seven more tallies. Seven, count 'em—seven. Boccock put up a fly that three struggled for, but none caught, and stole second, while McConnell lumbered peacefully. Then Myers walked another ball over the fence, and scored Boccock with his homer, while a silence that could have been quarried filled the stand. McClelland then rolled one to Klopff, and while he fumbled the alleged ringer waltzed around the bags, going to second on Bennett's sacrifice bunt. Then DeNeffe struck out.

This brought the thought to Spencer that he was still alive, and he began to shout. "Come on, ginger up; this ain't no funeral." "No," said the small boy, who peddled the cigars; "it's a fine large balloon ascension, and there's no limit on the height the aeroplane goes."

Multonomah didn't stop; no sir. Oswald got a pass, and when Sherer lined one past second he and DeNeffe came loping home, while Sherer got to third. He came home, too, when Campbell put one to McConnell. Noting the deep slumber that pervaded the field he went on to second, stealing audaciously, and came home when Stott lifted one out to the fence, almost over. Then Boccock got a single, and Myers, a Texas leaguer, which filled the bags. McClelland failed to improve the opportunity, or the Portlanders might still have been running. They took seven runs that inning—thirteen in all.

"Thirteen's an unlucky number, I'm afraid the Colts will lose," said a thirty-third degree fan.

In the eighth there was a slight indication of baseball on the part of the Colts. After Plummer had died on a foul fly Wattelet lined one out. "We got 'em going," said a shrill voice.

Then Wattelet tried to steal, and was nipped at second after a fine slide. "More expense to get that suit washed," sighed the manager. Klopff got a hit, and Davis lined one out which struck him as he sprinted for second.

Why tell more of the sad tale. Suffice it to say there were more errors in the ninth, and one more run—fourteen the full score was then—for Portland.

The colts will try again this afternoon, and say that will do better. It is admitted, though, that the Multonomahs are the fastest nine seen here for a long time.

Strawberry Vale Eleven Makes Poor Showing Against Victoria C. C.

It was a hollow victory which the Victoria Cricket club obtained over the Strawberry Vale eleven yesterday afternoon when by six wickets and 151 runs, the city team won in a one-daying game. The Victoria batsmen played the visitors' bowlers with ease and the scoring was rapid. Martin, 36; Bencen, 50; Heycock, 30, and L. S. V. York, 48 not out, made things lively from the start running the score to 165. Marshall with nine was the last Victoria man to bat and when his wicket fell the inning was declared with a total score of 177 for four wickets.

Strawberry Vale failed to put up any sort of defence before the Victoria trundlers, and were retired in one, two, three order, Watfield being top scorer with eight runs. The innings closed for the small total of twenty-six runs. The detailed scores were:

INTERMEDIATE GAME GOES TO LOCAL NINE

Victoria Wins Handily in Good Game of Baseball at Beacon
Hill Park

Before a good sized crowd of fans the local intermediate baseball team bested the Vancouver nine by a score of 11 to 7 yesterday morning at Beacon Hill park. Up to the fourth inning the visitors had the best of the game, and were in the lead two runs, but in the next inning, the lucky one for the home nine, the Vancouver balloon went up with a vengeance, and with the bases full Shanks landed on the nose of the sphere for a three-bagger, which brought the local score ahead of that of the visitors. This lead was added to in the next innings, while Vancouver failed to make any addition to their score. Laing, the twirler for the local aggregation, pitched steady ball, and during the last five innings was given good support. The score by innings was as follows:

Vancouver—2, 1, 0, 1, 0, 2, 1-7-5-4.
Victoria—1, 0, 3, 2, 2, 3-11-8-3.
The teams lined up as follows:
Vancouver—Norton, c.; McSerrial, 1b.; Crasie, p.; Paule, 3b.; Pike, s.s.;

FORTY YEARS AGO

British Colonist, May 26, 1869:
The fifth anniversary of the birth of Her Majesty Queen Victoria was observed with that enthusiastic and genial flow of harmonious feeling so common to our people. Every inch of bunting was thrown to the breeze and business was entirely suspended; crowds of people, young and old, gathered in the country districts and from the Sound to take part in the festivities, and the streets presented a gala appearance.

Eighty-two excursionists were brought from Puget Sound by the Wilson G. Hunt. Had the weather been pleasant, the number would have been largely augmented.

We particularly direct the attention of the public to the very important sale of real estate by Mr. Franklin, which will take place today. The property is of a highly superior character and offers a rare opportunity for investment.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Lafferty, Seattle and Miss Sutherland, Calgary, are visiting Mrs. Herbert Stanton, Menzies street, for a few days.

TONI'S BLUFF FAILS TO WORK

Astute Italian Can't Give Up His Previous Practices—Another Relapse

RECEIVES COAT OF WHITEWASH

Wherein Pick and Shovel Were Purely "Props" Not Meant for Actual Labor

For a long time Toni Ferodi, ex-convict, and an individual who has fallen foul of the police on several occasions, seemed to have mended his ways. Toni has always had a strong aversion to work, and rather than become a useful citizen, he has on numerous occasions eked out a precarious existence by thieving. But recently Toni gave signs of turning over a new leaf. Day after day he was seen passing the police station, pick and shovel on his shoulder, evidently bound for the scene of honest labor. But appearances are deceptive. Toni is once more behind the bars, this time on a charge of theft, and the local sleuths have discovered that the supposed honorable toil is all a myth. Instead the astute son of Italy, evidently appreciating the fact that unless he put up a "front" the authorities would inquire into his mode of livelihood, became possessed of the tools of the laboring man, and daily paraded before the eyes of the police. He marched right up past the police station and then marched right back again, but neither the pick nor shovel disclosed a single bit of mother earth. All this time the police officials were mentally congratulating the man on his seeming determination to renounce his former life and take to that of an honest man.

mer life and take to that of an honest man.

Toni's latest faux pas was committed last week when he entered the room occupied by J. Dewhurst, in a lodging-house, Pandora avenue, and purloined a quantity of stone cutter's tools, valued at $25. The stolen property was sold by the thief but has been recovered by the police. Ferodi will be arraigned this morning before Magistrate Jay.

Another ex-convict, in the person of John Anderson must answer to a charge of theft from H. Reynolds of a watch. The two men are, or rather were, pals. On Friday they were looting round the lower part of Johnson street when Reynolds became involved in a fight with a third party. Words led to blows, but preparatory to putting the finishing touches to his opponent, Reynolds stripped off his coat and waistcoat and handed them to Anderson to hold. After the encounter, in which Reynolds secured the decision, Anderson handed back the garments. It was not until some time later, after Anderson had left him, that Reynolds discovered that when the clothes were returned the watch was not with them. The police were requisitioned, with the result that Anderson, who had in the meantime disposed of the timepiece, was arrested. He also will parade this morning before the magistrate.

LURE OF PIRATE'S GOLD STILL ATTRACTS

While Pacific Coast Men Seek to Organize Cocos Island Schemes Easterners Go to Oak Island

While some local seafarers are endeavoring to organize another expedition to seek the treasures of Cocos Island, other dreamers are seeking to form a company on the Atlantic coast to seek the treasures which Captain Kidd is said to have buried on Oak Island, Nova Scotia. The advertisements in eastern newspapers offer dividends of no less than 4000 per cent, and claim that treasures will also be recovered from sunken wrecks. The advertisement tells of the lure of the pirate's gold as follows: "In the last two hundred years many an attempt has been made to find the vast wealth known to have been secured and buried by pirates. In the olden days 'malefactors of great wealth' helped themselves to cargoes of rich plunder from Spanish galleons and peaceable merchant vessels, and gathered together a treasure of $10,000,000, which they buried, according to tradition, on Oak Island, Nova Scotia.

A pit was dug three hundred feet from shore; the treasure buried at a depth of one hundred and ten feet, and underground tunnels run to the bay; when ready these were broken through and flooded, the treasure then lying sixty feet below water level. Over one hundred years ago the pit was discovered, and several attempts have been made to recover it, but up to the present time, owing to the crude methods employed, all have been flooded out and failed. But now, for the first time, scientific methods and modern machinery will be used, and the vast treasure, supposed to be the savings of Captain Kidd, or Blackbeard, will be recovered. A company has been formed and operations will be begun, on Oak Island this summer. By means of an 'orange peel' bucket the underground tunnels will be opened and then plugged by a diver. The bucket will then be moved to the 'Money pit' and it will be dug out at the rate of 1 1/4 cubic yards per minute. All of the treasure boxes may be brought up by the bucket, which spans 7 ft. 3 in.; but in any event, after digging to a depth of one hundred and twenty-five feet, a two-stage centrifugal pump, turbine driven, having a capacity of one thousand gallons per minute and a lift of two hundred feet, will be lowered into the pit and the water pumped out. The underground workings will then be explored. The recovery of this treasure should yield a dividend of 4000 per cent. this summer."

LARGEST CROWD OF MANY YEARS

Victorians En Masse Turned Out to Celebrate Victoria Day

Victoria's Empire Day celebration of 1909 will go down in history as one of the most successful on record—all the essentials for this achievement being present. The weather was delightful, visitors present in almost unprecedented crowds, an excellent programme was carried out without a hitch and no serious accident occurred to mar the happy occasion. The chief event scheduled for yesterday was, of course, the regatta at the Gorge, and that this number, which has been a feature of every programme for a twenty-fourth of May celebration for years past has lost none of its magnetic drawing qualities, was shown by the fact that one of the largest crowds assembled at that most picturesque spot in the history of the city. To transport this immense number of holiday seekers to that point overtaxed the street cars, the steamers plying up the Arm, the hacks, tallyhops and the automobiles. It is probably correct to say that had it been possible for them to get there, several thousand more persons would have swelled the immense throngs which assembled. Field sports were prime attractions and each event on this feature of the programme drew large crowds of spectators who witnessed some excellent matches.

The day was brought to a fitting and enjoyable close by an excellent display of fireworks at Beacon Hill park, which seldom has had within its confines so large a concourse of people.

The theatres were all well patronized during the afternoon and evening performances, and there was no complaint of any lack of entertainment on the part of visitors.

Not the least pleasing feature of the day's celebration is the fact that the immense crowds were most orderly. There were but few cases of drunkenness or disorderly conduct and the police made comparatively few arrests.

Edinburgh high constables are to be armed with whistles in future.

On the average, four out of every six men use tobacco.

Robin Hood Flour, Canada's Newest Greatest Flour, Continues to Grow in the User's Favor

"Robin Hood Flour" started out well. It made an immediate impression by its "goodness," by the amount of bread it makes in comparison with other flours, and by the sweet, mealy flavor of the loaves made from it.

When you are using add more water than with the flours you formerly bought. Then note the result. You get more bread, of more nutritious quality.

We are sending our staff of "Robin Hood" girls to every home in Victoria to let you know something about this wonderful, satisfying flour, to tell you why it has been so sensationally successful, and to get your order for a trial bag. Be sure you give them an order. It will prove its value. And "Robin Hood Flour" is sold under a positive guarantee. Your money back if not satisfied after two fair trials.

Every woman in Victoria ought to be using Robin Hood Flour now. If you haven't tried it start now. Order a bag the next time you buy flour. You will certainly be delighted with it. And remember that "this DIFFERENT flour" is always guaranteed.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Captain Swift.

The Edmund Gardiner Company gave a thoroughly enjoyable performance of "Captain Swift" at the Victoria theatre last night. The audience was not very large, the fireworks and concert at Beacon Hill park, coupled with the beautiful evening being a strong attraction. Those who were there, however, made up in enthusiasm for their lack of number. "Captain Swift" is the drama which first brought fame to Haddon Chambers, and his lines and affecting situations were as great as ever last night.

The play is most competently acted and it gives more scope for the varied abilities of Mr. Gardiner's company than any which has been seen here during their present engagement. Miss Girard, who was not in the bill last week and had but a minor part the week before, had her opportunity last night as Mrs. Seabrook, and she made the most of it. Mrs. Seabrook is the mother of Captain Swift. Entrapped into a false marriage in her youth, her child is put out to nurse with a servant by her sister. She knows nothing of what became of him after he ran away from school until she meets Swift under the name of Wilding, as a guest in her own home. How she recognizes her first born, and the anguish with which she sees him and a son by a later marriage at daggers drawn, her discovery of her identity to her long lost son, and the terrible tragedy of his untimely end, make at once a powerful and affecting part which is most sympathetically played by Miss Girard. On several occasions last night she drew tears from the ladies in the audience and even some of the sterner sex felt a lump in their throat during her great scene with her wandering son in the third act. She does not shout, or rant or strut or do any of the many things with which such parts are so often spoiled. She is to the life, the loving mother, a woman of advancing years to whom time has brought neither cynicism nor hard-heartedness. Miss Girard is certainly to be congratulated.

The title role is taken by Darrell Standing, and it is unnecessary to say that he plays it with the finish which Victoria theatre goers now expect. The part is quite a different one to any which he has played here, but as Captain Swift he shows himself quite as much a master of the situation in what is at times an emotional part as in the lighter characters he has played hitherto. His scenes with Miss Girard are very strong, and are good instances of great power with good control. He got many curtain calls last night and will get many more as the week proceeds.

Bennett Southard was a revelation as Marshall, the grasping, traitorous old servant who is the villain of the piece. It is not a part calculated to catch the sympathies of an audience, but his rendition of it was a work of art. His makeup was perfect and the scene where he gets a thrashing from Captain Swift, the foster son whom he first ill-treated and then betrayed, made the audience hold its breath.

Orrin Knox as Gardiner, Verne Layton as Harry Seabrook, Charles Marriott as Mr. Seabrook and Reginald Holmes as the detective. Of the other ladies, Miss Van Buren was beautiful and charming as ever as Stella Dabishier, round the contest for whose hand much of the interest centres, while Miss Gilbert gave quite a new impression as Mabel Seabrook, an impulsive young girl. Miss Brook makes but a brief appearance as Lady Staunton, the sister who got Mrs. Seabrook out of her scrape when a girl.

The play is a very strong one, and calculated to appeal to any audience. It deals with the later adventures of an Australian bushranger who comes to London with the intention of giving up his old life. Under the name of Wilding he is admitted to Mr. Seabrook's home where he meets his mother for the first time. He is tracked there by the detectives to whom he is betrayed by Marshall, his foster father. He evades arrest by a characteristic piece of daring, but finally commits suicide to save his mother's name. The deed is done off the stage, so the susceptibilities of the most fastidious are respected, but his tragedy of his untimely end, make at once a powerful and affecting part which is most sympathetically played by Miss Girard. On several occasions last night she drew tears from the ladies in the audience and even some of the sterner sex felt a lump in their throat during her great scene with her wandering son in the third act. She does not shout, or rant or strut or do any of the many things with which such parts are so often spoiled. She is to the life, the loving mother, a woman of advancing years to whom time has brought neither cynicism nor hard-heartedness. Miss Girard is certainly to be congratulated.

Refined comedy offered at its best by the best artists on the Sullivan and the Grand circuit, is contained in all of the importations and the biggest hands are given to Serbert Lindley & Co., Mann and Franks and Ward Brothers, the dandy dancing dandies. "Her Own Mother," by S. S. Selbert, is a one-act farce, in which Alice Lindley plays two parts—the daughter and the mother—with equal success. Quick changes of costume are needed and Miss Lindley appears equally charming in each part. The story of a temporary deceit, a wicked father and love's victory is told

New Grand Theatre

The big holiday comedy bill at the New Grand Theatre, played for the first time in Victoria yesterday, drew a capacity matinee in the afternoon, and was followed by three capacity houses at night, the last show ending at 11 o'clock.

The official report of the court appointed to inquire into the loss of the British steamer Clan Ranald off Troubridge, South Australia, on January 31st, has been issued in London by the board of trade. The report will be eagerly read by many people interested in shipping, but it is an unsatisfactory document, says the London Times, for it states that the board (marine board of South Australia), having taken all evidence available, extending over five separate meetings (held at Port Adelaide), have failed to elicit any evidence which clearly accounts for the sudden careening of the vessel. The Clan Ranald was a turret steamer, and left Adelaide for South Africa with a cargo of grain and flour. The report states that at the time of departure she had a list of four degrees to starboard, but that the evidence shows that upon reaching the open sea the list increased to six degrees. At about 2 p. m. the vessel suddenly heeled over to starboard, in a humorous manner that brings spontaneous applause. The Dandy Dancing Dandies, in kilts, will bring every Scot to the New Grand, and Mann and Franks presenting "From the Sublime to the Ridiculous" are certain of a double encore all the time. Don and Thompson, in "The Sailor and the Maid," the exciting turn of "The Torleys in trick bicycle work," and Thomas J. Price in a new school day illustrated song "I Shan't Tell What He Wrote on My Slate," with French comedy pieces, round out a certain capacity week bill.

Pantages Theatre

It is a good, well-balanced and altogether pleasing vaudeville show at Pantages this week. There are no elephants, thank you. The "Chorus Girl," by Rosa and Green, is a classy hodgepodge of nonsense that you will like. It has to do with a barrister and a show girl and is lively. When Black Patti lost Tim Oweley, her principal comedian, she was unlucky, and the hit he made with his monologue at Pantages last night is ample proof of the assertion.

Beyond a doubt, the cutest juveniles in vaudeville are the Guy Children, who made such a favorable impression in Victoria last winter. They are here again and going great. Byerslett Bros. in "Memories of the South" have a musical act of great merit and decidedly novel in its presentation. James Dixon is singing "The Rosary," and excellent motion pictures complete an excellent programme.

Unsatisfactory Finding in Disaster Where Forty Lives Were Lost

The official report of the court appointed to inquire into the loss of the British steamer Clan Ranald off Troubridge, South Australia, on January 31st, has been issued in London by the board of trade. placing that side of the turret deck under water, and she never righted again, and at about 10 p. m. she sank out of sight. The report says that the ship had a crew of 64 all told, 24 of whom reached the shore by such boats, etc., as were available, or by swimming. Forty were drowned, including the master, chief engineer, second mate, third engineer, fourth engineer and chief steward.

Suggested Cause of Disaster

As regards the possible cause of the disaster, the following remarks are made by the board: "A theory is advanced by experts that no shifting of cargo occurred as a cause of the wreck, and, again, that entrance of water into the vessel, unknown to her officers, could alone account for her suddenly heeling over. It has been thought, on the other hand, by some members of the board, and this view is supported by the first and third officers and the second engineer (who survived), that, although coal had been safely carried on her bridge and main decks on previous voyages, when she left Port Adelaide on her final voyage the weight of coal on her deck, coupled with her six degrees of starboard list on starting, was apparently sufficient to endanger her stability. The board are satisfied that the Clan Ranald was well found in every respect, and that her cargo was properly stowed. The board have to regret that the master (who has not survived) had to leave the performance of his duty as master, through indisposition, to the chief officer. The board, after this full investigation, cannot find any valid ground for suggesting charges against any of the surviving officers, and as regards the deceased officers who were on watch there exists no evidence to show that they neglected their duties." After various remarks, the report says that "the loss of all the officers on watch at the time of the disaster has necessarily rendered the task of the board more difficult in trying to get at the actual cause of the accident."

Baroness de Meyer, who at the recent exhibition of fencing given at Bertrand's School of Arms, London, by some notable lady fencers had as her antagonist Miss M. H. Hall, the amateur champion of 1908, is a most skillful wielder of the foil. Very slim and straight, and agile as a deer, she is seen to considerable advantage when engaged in this exhilarating exercise. Following her invariable rule of being well dressed whatever the occasion, the Baroness wears for fencing costume that lends all possible grace to her movements—a white doublet reaching almost to the knees, over black breeches and black stockings and shoes. With regard to the garments of ordinary life, somebody once said: "If you want to know the very latest word in fashion and elegance as applied to morning, noon or night, watch Baroness de Meyer, for you need not trouble to cross the Channel."

A Life Lesson

There, little girl, don't cry! They have broken your doll, I know, And your tea-set blue, And your play-house, too, Are things of the long ago. But childish trouble will soon pass by, There, little girl, don't cry. There, little girl, don't cry! They have broken your slate, I know, And the glad wild ways Of your school girl days Are things of the long ago. But life and love will soon come by, There, little girl, don't cry. There, little girl, don't cry! They have broken your heart, I know, And the rainbow gleams Of your youthful dreams Are things of the long ago. But Heaven holds all for which you sigh. There, little girl, don't cry. —James Whitcomb Riley.

NANAIMO WINS SECOND GAME

Defeats Ladysmith and Clubs Are Now Tied for Island Championship

Nanaimo, May 24.—The last of the home and home games the Nanaimo and Ladysmith football teams are playing to determine the victors in the Vancouver Island football league took place at Nanaimo yesterday.

The match was interesting in more ways than one. Right in the face of the agitation against Sunday football that has been carried on in the city last week, the game was witnessed by the largest crowd that ever attended a football match in Nanaimo, and Nanaimo is the place where a good soccer match draws the largest crowds in the province. It is estimated that in all between three and four thousand people saw the game. Last week, while the anti-Sunday sport people were petitioning the council to stop the games one of the speakers used the expression that if these games were continued "the scum and scuff" of Vancouver and Seattle would be coming here. Conspicuous on a large bulletin board on the football grounds Sunday was a big sign with the words, "We are the scum and scuff." The football enthusiasts throughout the city had taken the speaker's remarks at the council to refer to them, hence the sign and the great merriment it created on the grounds.

Another interesting feature of the game was the fact that Nanaimo turned the tables on their old rivals, and defeated Ladysmith in a hard fought game, the score standing three to two. By this win both teams are now tied for the island championship, and another game is necessary to decide what has already proven to be the hardest and longest drawn out struggle ever fought out in the island league.

Sunday's game was a repetition of the previous ones played by these crack teams, hammer and tongs throughout a strenuous struggle of wind and muscle and fast football. Nanaimo got a scoring streak in the first half. On a free kick by Mitchell the ball went into the goal, and Nanaimo got a rebound from Ladysmith's goal, and found the net with a well placed kick. This was shortly after the kick off, and the spirits of the Nanaimo rooters, who hardly dared to expect victory owing to two of their regular players being off the team through injuries received the previous Sunday, took a rise. Another twenty minutes and a Ladysmith back heading a ball did not get far enough under it, and sided it into his own goal. With the score standing two to nothing in their favor, Nanaimo rooters went wild, and when a third goal was scored for their side before the call of half time their enthusiasm knew no bounds, and they felt they had an easy victory.

They were destined to an awful scare though before the game ended, for, true to tradition, Ladysmith, never knowing when they are beaten, rallied in splendid form and attacked Nanaimo's goal in many fierce onslaughts. They found the net twice, and from then on till full time was called the Nanaimo fans were on pins and needles. Should Ladysmith even up the score it meant that they regained the island championship. It was not the fault of the red and blue that they did not score again, for they played a desperate game, while the whole Nanaimo defence responded equally as well. In fact at the end of play both teams were played to a standstill. The pace slackened up at the finish. It meant, however, that every man in the two teams was putting every ounce of reserve strength into the struggle. The same was true of the spectators, too, for both Nanaimo and Ladysmith fans were out in force. Indeed it is well that there is to be but one more game to decide the championship, for should there be many more such games as has been played recently half of the population of the two towns will be dead of heart affection.

For a game which meant so much it was remarkably free from rough play or dirty work. Turnbull was refereed, and kept a strict control of the game. His whistle was continually sounding, in fact too much so, many thought, for he did not allow the slightest move to escape him.

ASIATICS AS SEAMEN TEXT OF ARTICLE

Chinese, Lascars, Arabs and Men of Zanzibar on Many British Ships

An interesting article on Asiatics as seamen is published by Shipping Illustrated. There was a time when Chinamen were employed only on steamers calling at Chinese ports, but the demand for Colestials has gradually increased in direct proportion to the white man's dislike of life in the fore-castle, and today we find Chinamen, specially imported for the purpose, employed in fruit steamers plying regularly from the Atlantic and Gulf ports to West Indian and Central American ports, says the writer. These vessels, it is true, are under a foreign flag, nevertheless they are engaged in what is a purely coastwise trade, though out of the sphere reserved to vessels of American registry. It is doubtful whether this condition of affairs obtains in any other part of the world. Under the laws regulating the shipping of seamen in German, Norwegian, French and other vessels, no Chinamen or Asiatics may be employed except on steamers trading beyond the Suez canal, but British vessels labor under no such restriction. Chinamen may not be employed on American vessels in the United States coastwise trade, but there is nothing to prevent a line running between a United States and a North American port from carrying Chinamen as sailors and firemen. Thus has the China-man imposed himself at the ports of the very country which was the first to exclude him! Just exactly what is to be the future of the ocean carrier when none but Asiatics are available as deck and boiler-room hands is an economic problem that does not appear easy of solution. The time may come when Chinamen will show as little inclination to go to sea on vessels under foreign flags as the Japanese do today. Lascars from Indian ports are an expensive luxury, as their hours of work, conditions of employment and voyage limits are fixed by the Indian government with paternal solicitude. Arabs are frequently met with on the decks of Austrian steamers trading East and the Germans have found in the native government recruits for the money paid in mail subsidies. Similarly the British company carrying the Australian mail to Europe is bound by contract with the Commonwealth to carry white crews. No such provision has ever been inserted in any ocean mail bill offered for consideration to congress. Our mail steamers on the Pacific are manned exclusively by Asiatics, only the officers being white. This was true of the Japanese liners until quite recently, but even to date they still retain their white commanders, pursers, chief engineers, etc. It is a singular reflection upon our navigation laws and standing as a maritime nation that whereas few of the European lines in the Far East-corn trade have ever had cause to complain of Japanese competition, the latter has all but ruined our shipping on the Pacific. However, we may console ourselves with the thought that whereas under the leadership of shipping men American navigation prospered, it was under railroad management that the disappearance of our shipping became a fait accompli.

GOOD SALVAGE WORK OFF CAPE HATTERAS

British Steamer Tocantins Rescues Derelict Four-masted Schooner George May

The British steamer Tocantins, which was formerly the Ras Bera and was in company with the Foxton Hall, now at Vancouver, at Port Arthur when the war between Japan and Russia opened, now on the Lloyd-Brazilliere route between Bahia, and New York via New Orleans, saved the four-masted schooner George May off Cape Hatteras on her last voyage. About daylight the steamer came upon the George May in a water-logged condition and looked as though she had been abandoned. As the steamer drew nearer, however, Captain Morris saw the crew of the schooner crouched aft, clinging to whatever they could, all the deck houses having been swept away. It was at first thought that the schooner's crew would abandon their sinking vessel, but the plucky skipper, Captain J. C. Davis, of Millford, Del., refused to leave his charge and asked for a tow to Norfolk. The first boat sent from the Tocantins, in charge of the first officer, to the assistance of the schooner, was smashed against the steamer's side by the heavy running sea and the occupants had a narrow escape from drowning. Another boat was sent with provisions and a small line to carry the 11-inch hawser wherewith to tow the schooner. Both vessels were rolling so heavily that it was not until 9 a. m. that the hawser was made fast and the towing began at the rate of about 3 knots an hour. At 12:30 p. m. the hawser parted and it took three hours to splice it. As an additional precaution, Captain Morris sent a four-inch wire rope on board with the hawser. The towing was resumed at 4 p. m. and on May 1 the Tocantins, with the George May in tow, steamed in by the Capes and took on a pilot. The next day the schooner anchored and the Tocantins resumed her voyage for New York. The towing had been done under extremely difficult circumstances and Captain Morris entertained serious fears lest both steamer and crew might be lost. However, provisions and fresh water were sent them every day. Here is a piece of salvage which, aside from the probable financial consideration, reflects great credit upon its author. But Captain Morris is no novice at the art of assisting his fellow-beings. When the Tocantins, then Ras Bera, was steaming down the Brazilian coast, Captain Morris picked up off Aracaju a Brazilian sailor named Francisco Jose dos Santos, who had been in the water some fifteen hours and had had one leg bitten by a shark. For this noble action both the Brazilian government and the British consul at Bahia sent Captain Morris a letter of thanks. On the same voyage, when bound south, the steamer also sighted an Italian barque, the Paolina, partly dismasted and bound north from Buenos Ayres. The Italian skipper, however, declined the assistance proffered by Captain Morris and managed to reach New York a day ahead of the Tocantins. This steamer, it should be added, when the Ras Bera was at Port Arthur at the time the Japanese made the famous attack on the Russian fleet and the captain's wife, Mrs. Morris, witnessed the affair, about which she wrote a letter home that was published in the press.

Steamer Dora Reaches Seaward With 194 Survivors of Lost Cannery Ship

DROVE ASHORE AT UNIMAK PASS

Stories of Suffering and Heroism Recounted in Connection With Disaster

With 194 survivors of the wrecked cannery ship Columbia, which drove ashore and became a total loss near Unimak pass at the entrance to Bering sea the steamer Dora reached Seaward yesterday. The story told of the disaster was one of suffering and heroism.

The Dora is a small vessel, 300 tons gross, with accommodations for 86 passengers, and the staunch craft, the hero of numerous adventures of the sea, fairly bulged with her load of 240 human beings. They were piled in everywhere, sleeping in life boats, in the hold, in chain locker, cabin, all over; thus had they come 1,000 miles from the scene of the loss of the Columbia.

Following the grounding of the vessel, bound from San Francisco, in a blinding snowstorm, eight miles east of Unimak pass, on the night of April 30, the experiences of the passengers and crew of the Columbia, as they told them here, were harrowing in the extreme, but stout hearts triumphed.

There was no wind at the time, but a terrific surf was raging from a storm of the previous night. On the vessel were 53 Italians, 96 Japanese and the remaining 45 were Americans and Scandinavians. All, including the Japanese were passive and obedient in the face of danger save the Italians, who in panic raved and prayed. A boat was lowered and the Italians, including their bosses, poured in. The Italians attempted to seize two more boats, but were restrained at the point of guns.

Sailors Show Courage.
At daylight the feasibility of a surf landing was established, and boats were given to the turbulent Italians, who, permitted to depart, rowed eight miles to Scotch Cap lighthouse. Returning two days later for provisions, they were again compelled with revolvers, to take only food and to refrain from looting.

Passing the surf was difficult and dangerous, and volunteers were called to man the big fish boat. It looked like sure death, but every sailor responded to the call and stood ready for the perilous service. Two former life-saving service men, Christ Christopher-son and Ernest Anderson, insisted they be allowed to proceed for shore alone in a diminutive skiff. By heroic effort they succeeded in establishing a lifeline to the shore.

Disembarking by means of the large fish boats, following the life line, occupied 24 hours. The operation was fraught with extreme suffering, calling for the display of stolid endurance and quiet heroism, in which none was found wanting. Dr. Thrasher, the ship's physician, worked overtime reviving the men capsized in the icy waters, of whom there were several. Many were nearly drowned, and it was in the resuscitation of these that the Japanese showed life spirit. Sailors pulled out unconscious from under their capsized boats were rolled over the backs of recumbent Japanese, who acted as "barrels" while the water was pressed out of the lungs of the limp victims. The hardy lads, revived, returned to work two hours later, to co-operating with the comrades in the rescue work and the preparations for the flight for safety. All the boats were smashed but one.

On a Cold, Bare Coast.
It was a treeless and desolate beach on which the men were landed; covered with two feet of snow, it offered a bleak welcome to the shipwrecked. On the shore was one old hut, five by seven. This, with tents made from tarpaulin, afforded the only shelter, and fires were built from gathered driftwood. Provisions were taken ashore over the breech line the second day.

Only one woman, the Australian wife of Mate Cameron, was with the party and every man was the obedient slave of this plucky little woman, who thus had her first rude introduction to the phenomenon of snow. In the little hut shelter which was awarded to her 140 courtiers dubbed her queen of the Columbia.

For Scotch Cap lighthouse, over that eight miles of rocky ravine, through deep snowdrift and dashing torrent, lay the path to safety. Over this the shipwrecked boat was employed in carrying provisions. New hardships confronted the party, many of whom were already on the verge of utter exhaustion. The girl collapsed under the unaccustomed privation. Only her low slippers had been saved, and they were filled with ice and snow. To save her feet the slippers were removed and her stockings cut from the freezing limbs. Two of the men furnished socks from their own feet and one gave his shoes to the suffering woman, who was carried in the blankets by men who were themselves hardly able to crawl.

Kindness of Lightkeepers.
Arrived at the lighthouse, the sufferers were kindly treated by the lightkeepers, Ludascher, Olson and Pierson, who threw their residences open, one for the Italians, one for the Anglo-Saxons and Scandinavians and one for the Japanese. Great praise is given the lightkeepers for their hospitality.

On the morning of May 2 a storm caused the final abandonment of the wrecked Columbia to the elements. The same day the ship burned to the water's edge. The value of the cargo is $85,000, of the ship $15,000. Besides this $100,000 there is lost also the chance for a summer's pack of 200 gross cases, as the cannery will be idle. The men will lose their summer's wages.

The mail steamer Dora appeared on the morning of May 11. Owing to bad weather, the taking of the survivors aboard occupied a full day. The packer's steamer Nushagak, bound for Bristol bay, appeared and approached. When she ascertained assistance was not needed she proceeded on her way.

Careful of Human Cargo.
The Dora, swarming with her human cargo, reached Dutch harbor May 12. Here Customs Officer Bolshakin ordered the Dora to reload the men and proceed to Seaward to avoid starvation. The men were counted, the papers cleared and the vessel departed the same day on her 1,000-mile voyage with 240 aboard.

SAILING VESSELS FROM CLYDE PORT

Wray Castle Bringing Fire Clay and Pipes—New Fleet for Orient Line

Glasgow, May 10.—Several large sailing ships have recently left the Clyde for Victoria, Vancouver and Puget Sound ports, and the number was added to on Saturday last when the French ship Marechal de Castries left for Tacoma. This vessel, which arrived in the Clyde on March 29, with a cargo of timber from Puget Sound, has made some rather long voyages. She took 190 days to complete her last inward voyage from Tacoma, though she was not delayed by any exceptional circumstances. Her outward cargo on the present occasion consists mostly of heavy general goods such as pig iron, bricks, etc., and about 500 tons of china clay. The Marechal de Castries will shortly be followed by the Liverpool ship Wray Castle for Vancouver, also with a general cargo consisting largely of fire-clay goods and pipes. In addition to the latter vessel there are in the harbour at present four other sailing ships, one of which is loading a cargo of sugar machinery for Surinam.

The work of fitting out the three new Orient liners launched on the Clyde a few months ago is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible, and already the final stages have been reached. It is expected that the vessels will shortly be ready for running trials. According to present arrangements, the Orsova, built by Messrs. John Brown & Co., Clydebank, will be the first vessel to be put into commission, sailing for Australian ports on the 25th of next month. She will be followed on July 9 by the Otway, built at Fairfield. The Osterley is now being fitted out at the river berth of her builders, the London and Glasgow Shipbuilding company, Govan. The Belfast-built steamers will follow those of the Clyde on the Australian service.

The announcement just made that a new flour mill is to be erected in Glasgow should prove of more than passing interest to shipowners. The grain trade at Glasgow has been steadily growing during the past few years, the increase in the importation of grain being much greater than that of flour. At the present time the milling capacity of Glasgow stands at about 125 sacks (280 lbs.) per hour. The mill will be built at Springfield Quay in a central position. Several large cargoes of wheat and flour have been landed recently, including the steamer Berthorey with wheat from South America, the Glenfruin from Bahia, with both wheat and oats. Two cargoes of wheat and flour came in last week from Melbourne and a part cargo from New Orleans.

Every Chinese implement has its deity; there is a god of knives, another of spades, another of hatchets, another of swords. Animals are likewise protected in this way.

WHARF MOVED AND STEAMER STRANDS

Queen City Held for 24 Hours in Mud at Scow Bay on Northeast Coast

Because someone had moved the wharf the steamer Queen City which returned to port yesterday from Alert Bay and way ports was ashore for over 24 hours at Scow bay. The steamer called on her way south with 80 passengers, mostly loggers and settlers from east-coast points, to take on board an injured logger whose ankle had been broken when at work in the woods and who was being sent to Vancouver for medical treatment. The night before her arrival a tug dragged the float at which the steamer moored and it was in shallower water with the result that as the tide ran out the Queen City was caught and held fast in the mud. She heeled over to port as the tide fell, going down eight feet, and remained fast until Sunday morning, when sufficient water came beneath her keel to float off the vessel and she proceeded to Victoria, none the worse for her experience.

Interesting Law Point.

An interesting point in the law affecting compensation to seamen for injuries has just been decided. A fireman lost the sight of one eye through the bursting of a gauge glass on Messrs. Rankin, Gilmour & Co.'s steamer St. Hugo, and was sent home from Port Said to England at the owner's expense. Since arrival he has been paid £1 a week compensation. He claimed that this payment should have been made from the time he left Port Said, the port of return. The court decided against him, ordered him to pay the costs of the application and awarded him £1 a week during the period of incapacity.

Wants Six Steamers.

The Russian volunteer fleet is reported to be in the market for six high class steamers of large size. Of actual orders recently placed, a well known Dutch shipping company has contracted on the Clyde for three large steamers; a Liverpool firm has ordered two high class cargo boats from Messrs. Swan, Hunter & Wigham Richardson, Ltd., and the Motor Line of Newcastle, has contracted with a Sunderland firm of builders for two handy cargo boats of about 4,700 tons each.

Will Eliminate Guayaquil.

Direct steamship traffic between Ecuador and Panama, which was suspended for a time, has been re-established pending final settlement of the differences between the Ecuadorian government and the Pacific Lines. The government in March last canceled the existing contracts with the British and Chilean steamship companies, whose vessels plied between Valparaiso and Panama, because it had been decided to eliminate Guayaquil as a port of call on their northbound trips.

FIRST CO-PARTNERSHIP STEAMER IS LAUNCHED

Asiana in Which Capital and Labor Share Is Placed in Water at Hartlepool

The first co-partnership vessel of capital and labor, the Asiana, has been launched at Hartlepool, by Irvin's Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., Dr. Macdonald, parliamentary secretary to the admiralty, who was present at the launching, referring to the launch of the Asiana as the first fruits of Sir Christopher Furness's great scheme to bring capital and labor into closer co-operation, said her launch was in a way, an epoch in British individualism. Sir Christopher had got hold of a big idea, a right idea, and a fruitful idea, and to its steady development he personally looked for the redressing of economic injustice; for obviating bad feeling between employer and for rendering more permanently fruitful the product of the union between capital and labor.

Sir Christopher Furness said if this country was going to maintain its position in the world of commerce, it was absolutely necessary to build vessels of the highest class of workmanship, which should be the envy of the civilized world, and that all the wasteage that had been going on for some years should be thrown aside. It was, however, a serious state of affairs that out of 330 shipbuilding berths in the United Kingdom not more than 161 were occupied.

DEFENDERS WIN EASY VICTORY

Regina Team's Poor Effort to Lift Minto Cup From
Bank of Fraser

Vancouver, May 24.—Westminster outclassed Regina today in the second game of the series for the Minto cup. The Royal City men rubbed it in with a score of twelve to two, making the total score of eighteen to six for the two games. The result justifies the opinion of many persons who wit-

"Old Man Turnbull is still the giant for Westminster. Lacrosse enthusiasts declare that he is playing better than he did twenty years ago. Today he had the free run of the entire field. Nobody pretended to handle him and his check was tired in the first quarter.

Long Lead Secured

Westminster clinched the game in the first quarter, with a score of five to nothing. The Royal City men were class all the way. The second quarter score was four to two. There was no score in the third, when both teams visibly slackened up. It was four to nothing in the final period, with Westminster playing as fast as during the first ten minutes, with the Reginas down and out. Even enthusiastic Westminster fans, who sometimes apparently like to see their team pile up a score of twenty or nothing, tried to call off their stick friends in the last period. It was a nightmare, and the game on the whole tack on the Regina goal, but was up in a few minutes. Geo. Rennie carried the ball up the field and passed to Spring, who went on alone like a whirlwind and scored a beautiful goal in 4:13.

The Regina home could not make any impression on the Westminster defence, and had few chances to score, while the home team kept Clark on the jump continually, sending in at least ten shots to one at the other end. A free throw was allowed Westminster for a hand ball, and Jimmy Gifford, taking the ball went up the field alone, passing to Bryson, who scored the third goal in 6:03.

The Westminster home was stepping along in its best style at this juncture, while the Regina men did not seem to fancy the vigorous methods of the Royal City defenders, missing passes continually when in close quarters. Bryson made it far stronger for Westminster after some pretty combination by the home. Time, 2:37.

Regina after the face-off. Turnbull's shot was wide. Regina got away, but found the Westminster's defence too strong. Play freshened up, and both teams did some nice fielding. Westminster finally scoring through Len Turnbull on a pass from Pat Feeney; time, 4:26. Regina was doing better at this stage, and came close to scoring on a number of occasions, once sending in three shots as fast as Gray could stop them and bat them out. Bryson had a stick thrown into his ribs in a salmon belly attack and had to take the count. Regina attacked freely, but Galbraith picked out a shot and passing to Geo. Rennie, the Westminster home went down like a line of skirmishers. Bryson passed to Spring, who tore right in on the net, and Clark had no chance to stop the seventh goal; time, 3:33. Soon after the Westminster home went in again on the same system, and Alex. Turnbull passed to Len Turnbull. Clark partly stopped the latter's shot, but it bounded over his stick, and Westminster attack, and there was no more scoring, half time coming with the count 8 to 2 in favor of Westminster, giving the home team eight clear goals on the series.

Sturdy Defence.

Pat Feeney sent in the first shot of the third quarter five seconds after the draw, but the ball went wide. Clark did some great work for Regina, stopping a number of shots that looked like sure counters. The play was more interesting at this stage than for some time, both teams playing a pretty game in the field, with Westminster having the best of it. Donovan shoved a stick into Spring's stomach, and went off for ten minutes while the game was stopped for repairs to the local lad. The Westminster defence showed up in Siltion fashion, the Regina home being unable to make any impression on it. Most of the Regina attacks ended at Geo. Rennie, Sandy Gray having very little to do in the net. He made one brilliant stop of a shot from McDougall, and cleared just in time. The pace slowed up some, both teams showing the effect of their fast work of the two preceding quarters. Len Turnbull was laid out by a crack over the head, but the injury was not serious. The Westminster field did some showy work and made the high-priced all-stars look like secondhand remnants at times. Neither team was able to score in this quarter, and the intermission came with the count still 8 to 2. The crowd began to leave at this stage, satisfied that the cup was anchored in Westminster.

The new Westminster home pulled off a spectacular lot of work at the start of the fourth quarter, and Spring scored in 1:01. He repeated in 2:35, going in both times in brilliant fashion right on the top of Clark before shooting. Bill Turnbull made the count 11 for Westminster in 1:29, the Westminster home playing rings round the Regina defence. George Rennie varied the proceedings by going in himself and scoring alone in 13 seconds, making Westminster's twelfth goal. Tom Rennie was cut on the nose, and had to go to the clubhouse for repairs. Westminster was playing rag with the challengers in this quarter, and the prairie men were completely outclassed.

Regina seemed to be all in, and there was no life in their attack whenever they had the ball. Westminster, on the other hand, appeared to be tireless, and just kept boring in all the time, though toward the end they appeared to be letting up, as though content with their lead.

INTERNATIONAL BOWLING

Large List of Entries for Big Tournament to Be Held in Seattle

Seattle, May 24.—Committees to handle the tournament of the Western Bowling Congress, which opens here next Saturday night, were named at a meeting of the executive committee and officers yesterday. The entry committee will consist of George J. Kuppinger and W. B. Brown; the schedule committee of A. L. Jenkins, Kuppinger and Brown, and the publicity committee of Kuppinger and Brown. These men were named because of their experience in directing bowling tournaments. M. B. Kelly will have charge of the scoring, both on the books and on the boards.

Philip Cone, of Chicago, and J. Mahoney, of New Westminster, were named as umpires to decide disputes and have general oversight of the games.

MINTO CUP CHALLENGERS

Regina Lacrosse Team which suffered two straight defeats in championship series.

nessed the game last Thursday, that for the sake of their gate receipts this afternoon, Westminster purposely played slack during the last half of the first match. If they did this, the resulting attendance this afternoon surprised even the Royal City folk. Never before has there been such a crowd at any game there. More than an hour before the game was called, the ticket sellers had sold out the grandstand and bleachers. There were more than twelve thousand paid admissions. The receipts were stated to be $5,000.

was not too interesting. The teams were the same as last week.

Westminster won the toss, and Tom Rennie sent in the first shot of the game, half a minute after the start, the ball going wide. A Regina attack followed, and then the ball went to the other end. The Westminster home was active and bored in repeatedly. Len Turnbull finally scoring in 2:03. The Westminster home was playing great ball at this stage and the cup defenders were having all the better of the play. Billy Turnbull was knocked out during a fierce at-

Lalonde was benched for 5 minutes for too strenuous work, getting the first penalty of the game. Right afterwards, the Westminster home went in again and Bryson scored the fifth goal; time, 2:39.

Warwick fell ill at this juncture, and the game was stopped for a few minutes till he was given a rest. He was unable to continue after three minutes, and Bert Ross replaced him a minute before time. The quarter ended with the score 5 to nothing.

Strenuous Work.

The Royals went straight for the ster had an easy goal; time 3:30. Gorman scored the first goal for Regina two minutes later on a long shot which Gray should have stopped. McDougall made it two for Regina by a nifty piece of work, taking a pass right in front and shooting with half a dozen Westminster sticks swinging round his head. Time, 1:05.

For the next couple of minutes Regina kept the Westminster defence busy, several of their defence men going up on the home in the effort to score. For the remainder of the quarter Regina played well but the Westminster defence was equal to every

NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to the provisions of The Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906, Chapter 115, Sec. 7, and Chapter 143, Sec. 24, the undersigned will, at the expiration of thirty days from the date hereof, apply to the Governor in Council for the approval of the area plans and site of certain proposed works to be constructed at the mouth of the Esquimalt River, Vancouver Island, British Columbia, upon the following described foreshore and submerged lands: Commencing at high water mark at the northwesterly corner of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway station grounds, known as the Esquimalt Station, thence south fifty-four degrees west (S. 54° W.) a distance of four hundred and seventy-three feet (473') to a point on the shore of the Esquimalt River, thence south nineteen degrees east (S. 19° E.) a distance of one hundred and fifty feet (150') along boundary of foreshore applied for by the B. F. Graham Lumber Company, thence south eighty degrees east (S. 80° E.) a distance of four hundred and eighty feet (480') more or less to high water mark, and thence following high water mark to point of commencement, the whole containing 2.85 (three and eighty-five one hundredths) acres and shown colored red on plan made by T. S. Goren, P. L. S., under date May 7th, 1909.

The said works consist of the construction of a booming ground for the erection of a sawmill upon the foreshore and extending into the water, and a plan of the said proposed works and a description of the proposed site has been deposited with the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa and duplicates thereof in the Land Registry Office at Victoria, B. C.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

(Furnished by F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
New York, May 24.—The market was without special feature today, being on a very normal scale. The abnormal prices of wheat and corn were somewhat of a deterrent to the market. Fundamental sentiment on securities. Fundamental conditions due to improved industry throughout the country and we expect to see improvement.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

(Furnished by F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
Chicago, May 24.—Wheat—There was a big broad market in wheat for the entire session with top prices for the year established for all months, most remarkable operations of the day in the late months, where advances were more than three cents. Recent great strength developed in the Minneapolis market in which all months led the advance here with mills and buyers in an effort to make sure of supplies up to the time of spring wheat harvest, gave shorts in the late months a bad scare and the buying late last week on a strong advance and the still further sensational advance in September and December prices today are the results. In the wheat market, the results of the wheat harvest in Kansas and Oklahoma, cables told of a situation of drought in Russia, it will not be strange if sharp reactions occur, following an advance, but cash premiums everywhere and the certainty of even greater depletion in supplies before harvest appears to justify the great strength shown by the trade tonight.

Corn—Shorts in corn were badly punished today. The heavy short sellers undertook to cover while the heavy return of corn prevented an advance. Liquidation was so heavy and so general that all months went to much higher figures. There was buying of cash corn here and selling by the elevator people in the pit. The biggest and clearest people in the pit. The biggest and clearest people in the pit. The biggest and clearest people in the pit.

Oats—Prices could do nothing else but follow the strength in wheat and corn. The cash market was one cent higher.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET.

(Furnished by F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
New York, May 24.—The Texas drought situation seems to have been relieved for the moment by the news of planting there will add to the uncertainty and the crop starting this late has many vicissitudes for which it will be a trial.

During the rest of this week we are likely to have reports of both acreage and conditions from many private sources and the trend of all of them will be to a diminished acreage and a condition certainly under 75, and we have yet to raise a full crop with conditions low. The people who are not lodged in the cotton market are there with determined ideas that will not be easily dislodged.

BOSTON COPPER MARKET.

(Furnished by F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
Boston, May 24.—Higher prices in London and a better market for the metal here caused all the copper stocks to go up. The market was very active, however, traders started to take profits and the whole list sagged a little, especially North Butte. Producers reports were very encouraging, all the mines being sold well into June and sales of metal being larger this month than any time since January, 1907. The

FOR TUESDAY, SOME BARGAINS ARE OFFERED

In addition to the many attractions that the Big Store offers for Tuesday, are some offerings on the third floor of more than ordinary merit. The Sale of Wall Paper offers bargains that are well worth taking advantage of, even if buying for future needs, as these papers are the very highest grade and choice designs. Then some Mattresses and Springs are also offered at a very low price. Then the store is well supplied with everything that the season demands.

Tuesday, a Sale of Mattresses and Springs

$2.50 Mattresses or Springs $2.50

While these Mattresses and Springs last, there will be a busy time in the Furniture Department, where they will be sold. Both lines are marked at this price, which makes them extra good values, in fact genuine bargains. For various reasons we wish to clear out the entire lot on Tuesday, and we have marked them at this price, knowing that it will insure a quick clearance.

Mattresses Tuesday $2.50

That these are bargains will be apparent to everybody, and as can be seen, the quantities are limited, so it would be well to be on hand early.

Men's Summer Clothes

No matter what kind of weather we have before Victoria Day, we always have fine weather after that day, so from now on summer clothing will be in demand. When it comes to the question of buying a suit, many things have to be considered: where to buy and what to buy, where to buy garments that are correct in style and cut, properly made, and where the price is right for the article you want.

The Spencer prices on clothing solves the problem of correct dressing at a moderate cost. We sell clothing that is as good as any made—we don't claim that it is better than all others—but we do claim that it is better than the majority of makes and as good as any made, and we sell this clothing at prices that make it easy for you to buy. We buy largely to supply all our stores, and we therefore save on the price. That's one of the reasons why our prices are the lowest.
